Bevanite Leftwingers Win Party Power Post

Blackpool, England, Oct. 2 (AP)—Britain's Labor Party today elected Aneurin Bevan as its treasurer, emphasizing the opposition party's sharp swing toward advocacy of more state ownership.

The fiery Welsh orator scored a substantial victory over George Brown, a moderate Labor member of Parliament, to regain his seat in the party's important national executive committee.

Moderate followers of party leader Hugh Gaitskell retained their strong majority on the 28-member executive, but the Bevanite group of Left Wingers increased its holdings.

Bevan, 58-year-old former coal miner and Parliament's strongest speaker since Sir Winston Churchill stepped aside, will fill one of the party's most powerful posts as treasurer.

He recently has been the party spokesman on colonial affairs in the House of Commons, but political sources speculated he might now take over the more important field of defense, foreign affairs or economic matters. That would put him in line for the cabinet posts of minister of defense, foreign secretary or chancellor of the exchequer if Labor unseats Prime Minister Eden's Conservatives.

Highland Man Killed In Mishap at Circle

Vincent Tremarco, 68, of the Little Italy road, Highland, was hit by a car and killed about dark on Monday as he was crossing Route 44-55 between Highland Circle and the Mid-Hudson bridge.

Mr. Tremarco was crossing the highway a little north of the Blue Rock Tavern at the time of the mishap.

He was struck by a car operated by Everett Kenneth Conway, 30, of 4 Morgan avenue, Poughkeepsie, a salesman for Wonder Bread, according to Highland state police.

Six Children Slain, Find Body Of Hunted Father

Clinton, N. C., Oct. 2 (AP)—Officers early today discovered six children slain by gun and ax in their humble tenant farm home, and several hours later their hunted father's body was found in woods nearby, a gun beside him.

Sampson County Coroner Coleman Carter announced the finding of the body of the father, 34-year-old Rufus A. King. Sheriff's deputies who went to the King home to serve a warrant charging assault on his wife found the children's bodies strewn about the blood-spattered home. One was in bed. Five were sprawled on the floor of the six-room frame dwelling.

Coroner Carter said a superficial examination showed that most of the children had been beaten with the butt of a rifle or with an ax. The youngest, 2-year-old Susan, had been shot. All the others suffered compound fractures of the head.

"It was the most horrible sight I have ever seen," the coroner declared.

New Clashes

New Delhi, India, Oct. 2 (AP)—Press dispatches today reported new clashes between Indian troops and rebellious Naga tribesmen near the Burmese frontier. Casualties were described as heavy.

The reports said the action took place during the last few days at Sidhuma village near Ghaspini in the South Angami region. India has about one division of regular army and Assam state militia troops in the frontier area to combat insurgent activities of the Naga hills tribesmen who demand an independent Nagaland.

Wagner Says Give Arms to Israel, Javits Lauds Ike

(By The Associated Press)

Mayor Robert F. Wagner urges that the United States send arms to Israel as a gift.

The Democratic-Liberal party candidate for the Senate says that in his opinion the United States "should not ask them to pay, because it will break down their economy."

Wagner's statement was made extemporaneously last night at a rally of the United Shoe Workers of America in Manhattan.

As Wagner campaigned in New York city his Republican opponent, Atty. Gen. Jacob J. Javits, made an upstate trip yesterday.

The political spotlight in New York city was mostly on former President Harry S. Truman who blasted the Eisenhower administration in a series of speeches at meetings in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens which ran through yesterday and last night.

Gov. Averell Harriman, who also delivered campaign speeches, rode with Truman in an open car.

Talks at Grossinger

Javits flew to Liberty and spoke at Grossinger's Hotel. Later he made a handshaking tour of the Liberty business district.

Addressing a luncheon sponsored by the Sullivan and Orange county GOP organizations, Javits said the Republicans offer the voters "accomplishments and unparallel leadership for peace."

He also said President Eisenhower has done "a remarkable job of curbing inflation."

Javits said that only a President as popular as Eisenhower could have made without criticism what Javits called "the bold proposal" to the Soviet Union for reciprocal air and ground military inspections.

Javits continued: "If President Truman or President Roosevelt had made such a proposal, they would have been (Continued on Page 7, Col. 4)

Propose Mt. Marion Pupils Move Into Boarding House

A proposal will be made to move all classes at Mt. Marion School to Les Lillas, a nearby boarding house in Mt. Marion, Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of Saugerties Central School District announced at the regular meeting of the board of education Monday night in the school.

The main purpose of the move would be to provide full sessions for nearly 50 pupils now operating on a part-time schedule.

Dr. Morse said a meeting of the residents of the Mt. Marion area will be called within a week and the matter will be put up for discussion. The parents will have the choice of allowing their children to continue in the present Mt. Marion School building or to transfer the entire student body to the boarding house where most suitable facilities are available, he said.

If the move is approved by the parents classes will be continued in the boarding house until the new school is completed.

According to the original plans for the construction of the new school the 10-classroom plant is expected to be completed in the fall of 1957.

Dr. Morse said that if the parents approve the move the pupils should be in their new surroundings about November 1. Herman Grana is the present owner of Les Lillas which the district plans to lease for the project.

Dr. Morse told the board that architects plans for the new Mt. Marion School should be ready by October 15 and it might be possible to ask for bids on the construction at that time.

The board voted to join the Mid-Hudson School Study Council with headquarters at New Paltz. The council comprises most of the schools in the mid-Hudson valley.

Dr. Morse reported to the board that school registration showed a net increase of 46 pupils since September 1.

Stop Bomb Tests: Adlai

70 Million Jobs, Good Wages Is Ike Promise

Adlai E. Stevenson challenged President Eisenhower today to "take the leadership" in banning hydrogen bomb tests, saying the administration "has not pressed forward along this path to peace as so many have urged."

The proposal came in the wake of a slashing campaign attack by Eisenhower last night on Stevenson and the Democratic majority in Congress.

Eisenhower also forecast, in a major address at Lexington, Ky., a continued prosperity "with more than 70 million jobs at good wages" if he is re-elected.

Stevenson's renewal of his earlier proposals that this nation take the lead in banning H-bomb tests came in an address prepared for delivery at the Fairleigh Dickinson University campus at Teaneck, N. J.

Says Leader Needed

"The renunciation of such tests is a step which I think the great powers are now willing to take—if there is leadership in this direction," Stevenson said.

Eisenhower also referred to the problem of world peace last night. Without mentioning Stevenson by name, he said "political oratory... at its most reckless has plunged to the wild extremes of charging this administration with such fabulous failings as not guarding the peace—and not caring for the welfare of any humble citizen or any needy family in the land."

Adlai Goes to Jersey

Eisenhower returned to Washington after speeches in Cleveland and Lexington yesterday and last night. Stevenson headed today for an eight-speech tour in New Jersey.

In his Teaneck speech, Stevenson said the government should "explore disarmament proposals made by others to see whether they were made in good faith and whether they will meet our security requirements."

He said the Eisenhower administration "has even withdrawn its own proposals when others indicated a willingness to accept these proposals."

Onteora Bond Opposed Proposal Is 10 More Boiceville Rooms

Opposition to the $1,125,000 expansion program bond issue for Onteora Central School District was evidenced Monday night at the first public meeting in a series to present the proposal to the voting public. Voting on the bond issue will be on or about November 15.

The meeting was held at Olive Bridge firehouse where more than 60 resident taxpayers attending heard Ernest J. Gardner of Mt. Tremper, a member of the Onteora Taxpayers Committee ask why the taxpayers of the district were not given an alternative program.

Asks Other Solutions

Mr. Gardner indicated in his talk that there must be more than one solution to the present overcrowded condition at the central school. However, he said, only one proposal has been under study and this one involving the floating of a $1,125,000 bond issue for the construction of three regional elementary schools at sites in Lake Hill, Alabon and Olive Bridge.

According to Mr. Gardner, a possible solution to the problem would be a 10-room addition to the present school building at Boiceville. Mr. Gardner said that adequate water, heating and sewage facilities are already installed for possible expansion.

Jedd Stow Reiser, architect for the school district who attended with John Moehle, supervising principal of Onteora School said the State Education Department would not approve enlarging of the present school and that they approved the regional school proposal covered by the proposed bond issue.

Just as Costly, He Says

Mr. Reiser said he believed that a 10-room addition to the present school would cost approximately $500,000, which in his opinion would be as much as the cost of one of the proposed regional schools.

When asked how long it would take to make an additional study on a proposal to build a 21-room elementary school (K-6) on a site adjacent to the present school, Mr. Moehle said such a project could take about four months.

Mr. Gardner said that if such (Continued on Page 7, Col. 6)

Governor Holds Debate On Trade Stamps Facts

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP)—Debate over use of the trading stamp, a popular pastime at the backyard fence, moved into the state capitol today where the Harriman administration could take a closeup look.

About 100 merchants, consumers, economists and representatives of trading stamp companies gathered here at the governor's invitation to swap viewpoints on the practice of issuing redeemable stamps with retail purchases.

One question dominated the conference: "Are the stamps a blessing to the bargain-hunting shopper, or a burden in disguise?"

Dr. Persia Campbell, consumer counsel to the governor, said the conference was a "fact-finding" meeting—to help clear up what she said was a "confused picture" on the use of stamps in New York state.

She could not say at this time, she said, whether the conference would lead to recommendations by the governor for legislation affecting the trading-stamp business.

In a "fact sheet" prepared for the conference (1:30 p. m.), Dr. Campbell noted that proponents of the trading stamp saw it as a good promotional device that gave consumers "a discount for paying cash."

On the other hand, Dr. Campbell asserted, opponents of the practice argue that "no one is in business to give things away," that the consumer thus foots the bill through higher prices.

"Some consumers," said Dr. Campbell, "find excitement in 'giveaways' for which the other fellow pays." Others question whether they themselves are the "other fellow."

The conference program called for a panel discussion involving 16 persons concerned with the subject, followed by a general discussion.

These major subjects were up for discussion:

1. The effect of trading stamps on retail prices.
2. The effect on small retail business.
3. Rate of stamp redemption.
4. Use of stamp reserves by trading stamp companies.
5. The effect of stamps on consumer behavior.

High School Girl Struck by Auto

A 17-year-old Kingston High School student, who was struck by an automobile in front of Kingston Hospital while on her way to school this morning, was reported in "apparently good" condition at the hospital.

Joan Effner, of 77 East Chester street, suffered injuries to her left hip and back, police reported.

Officers Joseph Kivlan and Guernsey Burger, Jr., who investigated, said Miss Effner, crossing Broadway near Andrew street in front of the hospital, was struck by a 1953 sedan owned and operated by Calvin R. Brueckner, 23, of RD 2, Box 292-A.

Miss Effner was crossing Broadway to Kingston High School, police said, and Mr. Brueckner was traveling out of Andrew street, turning left and headed north when the accident happened.

The injured girl was removed to the hospital by Schultz ambulance. Time of the accident was set at 8:25 a. m.

Weather Is Big Factor In Future Will Pour Decks Whenever Mild

The New York State Bridge Authority tentatively set December 15 for the opening of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge—if favorable weather continues until November 10 when, it is hoped, concrete will have been poured on the bridge deck.

A spokesman for the bridge authority said today the opening of the bridge to traffic was discussed at a meeting Monday afternoon, "but it is all in the hands of the weather."

"If we get decent weather between now and November 10 we will be able to pour concrete on the bridge deck and open the span five or six weeks after that, or about December 15," the spokesman said.

Steel Done Soon

Steel work is expected to be completed by the end of next week, he said, with approximately 200 feet still to be finished to join the span at the center. The bridge deck will have to be paved after the two sections are joined.

Pavement work has been progressing satisfactorily, to date, on both sides of the river, and now much will depend upon the race against cold weather.

Can't Pour in Cold

Concrete will not be poured in freezing weather but engineers said it will be poured whenever the weather is mild. That means that if a week or a few days of cold weather is followed by a mild spell, concrete will be poured during the latter.

The bridge authority yesterday also went over preliminary drawings for the proposed Newburgh-Beacon Bridge and a spokesman said plans were discussed to seek financial aid from the next session of the state legislature for construction of the span which will link Orange and Dutchess counties.

Scared, Says Truman

New York, Oct. 2 (AP)—Former President Truman said today President Eisenhower has stepped up his campaign because he is "scared" about the outcome of the election. The Democrat, taking his morning stroll, commented: "He's scared. We've got them (the Republicans) all scared. They're scared of everything." A reporter asked Truman for a comment on Vice President Nixon's charge that Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, and Truman had deserted principles on which the Democratic party was founded. "He's got a hell of a right to be talking about principles," Truman declared.

Hearings on 4 Housing Areas Scheduled Tonight in Ulster

Public hearings on four different housing developments are scheduled tonight before the Town of Ulster Planning Board. They are the Whittier development in Flatbush, the Applegate project out Lucas avenue extension, the Cherry Hill project on Sawkill road, and Rolling Meadows, which is partly in the town of Ulster and partly in the town of Hurley.

The Whittier development, under construction by Masterplanned, Inc., is expected to submit a section of the project, reported to consist of 150 houses, to the board tonight for approval.

It was announced some time ago by Masterplanned, Inc., that ultimately several thousand homes would be built, including a shopping center—a kind of miniature city.

Sewage disposal and water supply must be approved by the Ulster County Department of health before the proposed section (2A) can be constructed. It is reported that Whittier representatives will submit plans tonight for this section.

Town of Ulster taxpayers are invited to attend and express approval or disapproval of the proposals.

It is reported that Whittier plans to install a temporary sewage plant and water system.

Drugs and Music Called Big Aid In Rehabilitation

Philadelphia, Oct. 2 (AP)—The problems of recreation for the ill and handicapped came before the International Recreation Congress today, with discussions of the use of tranquilizing drugs and music and dance therapy.

Dr. Maurice E. Linden, director of the division of mental health of the Philadelphia Health Department, said in a speech prepared for the congress that the use of tranquilizing drugs is changing the pattern of care in mental institutions.

Helps Treatments

Through the drugs, thousands of patients who formerly were regarded as chronic and hopeless are now taking part in recreational programs, which in turn have been found helpful in treatment, he said. In addition to the refreshing and healthful activities of recreation programs, the drugs permit easier use of other means of treatment of mental illness, Dr. Linden added.

Myrtle Fish Thompson, director of music therapy at Essex County Overbrook Hospital, Cedar Grove, N. J., said in another prepared talk that music of all forms could be used as an aid to hospital care.

Miss Marian Chase, of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C., said dance can be used as therapy because it is a means of being with other people in a group without undue stress on competition; because it is a stimulant to healthy activity; and because it is a means of direct communication when other channels are impaired or cut off.

Programs Needed

Donald W. Wilson, secretary-general of the international society for the welfare of cripples, New York, said recreation and rehabilitation programs are vitally needed. He said that although children confined to hospitals for long periods may receive excellent medical care, the physical improvement may be offset by damage to their personalities because of enforced years of inactivity.

Some 2,000 delegates from more than 30 nations are attending the congress, which runs through Friday.

A speaker at the ill and handicapped section last night said two-thirds of the world population walk with preventable death by their sides.

Dr. John J. Hanlon, chief, public health division, International Cooperation Administration, said that because of disease and malnutrition, the life expectancy of persons throughout the world is between 30 and 35. By contrast, the life expectancy in the U. S. is 70.

He said the U. S. is spearheading a program for the "recreation of man" aiding in the elimination of disease, through such organizations as the International Cooperation Administration.

Trucks, Rail Lawyers Prepare for Suit

Philadelphia, Oct. 2 (AP)—Opposing teams of lawyers marshaled their arguments today in federal court, seeking treble damages totaling 370 million dollars in a legal battle between a group of eastern railroads and the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Assn.

The PMTA and 37 trucking firms are suing the railroads for 250 million dollars, charging illegal restraint of trade. The railroads are seeking 120 million dollars in a counter-suit under the same federal law, the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

In opening arguments yesterday before Judge Thomas J. Clary, PMTA Attorney Harold E. Kohn said:

"We propose to show by the testimony of Carl Boyer and Associates Inc., first, by documents now admitted to be genuine, and by the testimony of railroad executives, that the defendants (the railroads) embarked on an illegal conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce."

The Boyer firm, also a defendant, is a public relations organization which represented the railroads.

Philip Price, Pennsylvania railroad counsel, speaking on behalf of 30 railroads and the Eastern Railroad Presidents Conference, said truckers do more damage to the highways than they pay for. He said telling the public about this is not a federal violation. He declared the alleged road damage is unfair to the public and creates unfair competition for the railroads, the latter is a violation of the Sherman Act, Price said.

Truck Driver Is Fined $50, Was In 3-Car Mishap

A Poughkeepsie man, arrested Sept. 2 on a charge of driving while intoxicated, pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of reckless driving and paid a $50 fine in City Court today.

Frederick Karl Koepen, 37, of 118 Hooker avenue, was arrested by Officers Francis Buchanan and Gilbert Gray on a charge of driving while intoxicated after a truck he was driving was involved in an accident with three other cars at Broadway and O'Neil street yesterday.

According to a police report of Sept. 2, Koepen, operating a truck owned by the K & M Banana Company of Poughkeepsie was in collision with a 1956 tudor sedan driven by Joseph Provenzano, 32, of 27 Market street, Saugerties.

A 1950 sedan owned by Frank Martin, Jr., of 54 Van Deusen street, which was parked at the curb in front of 632 Broadway was involved when a 1949 tudor sedan operated by Augustus A. Kirkner, 35, of 431 Seventh avenue, Troy, came upon the scene of the accident, struck the truck and the Provenzano vehicle, police said, causing the truck to smash into the parked Martin vehicle.

Provenzano was treated for contusions of the chest and left knee and his passenger, Miss Betty Panos, 28, of Jackson Heights, L. I., was treated at Benedictine Hospital for contusions of the chest and left knee and laceration on the right eyebrow.

Clifford Van Kleeck, 27, of 477 Abeel street, a passenger in the truck, received cuts on his forehead.

Kirkner was arrested by Officer Harry Tempelaar on a charge of reckless driving after he allegedly failed to stop when commanded to do so by the officer on duty at the scene of the accident. Kirkner pleaded not guilty when arraigned in court Sept. 4. His case is pending.

Robert Forest, 38, of Highland, owner of the vehicle driven by Kirkner was arrested by Officers Gerald McCloskey and Charles McCullough on a charge of public intoxication. He received a suspended sentence Sept. 4.

The case of Dorothy Johnson, 42, of River road, Port Jervis, who was arrested at 8:42 p. m. Monday, on a speeding charge, was adjourned to Wednesday.

She was arrested on Clifton avenue near Flatbush avenue by Officers Gilbert Gray and Bruce Clark.

Harry Dugan, 47, of 3½ Main street, who was arrested at 3:22 p. m. Monday on a third degree assault charge, was granted adjournment until Oct. 9 to obtain counsel. He pleaded not guilty in court today and posted $15 bail. He was arrested on the complaint of Aurelia Dugan.

Mouth Cancer Is Not Increasing With Tobacco Use

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 2 (AP)—Mouth cancer has not increased on a par with the growing use of tobacco, says Dr. Seymour J. Kreshover, associate director of the National Institute for Dental Research, Washington, D. C.

But statistical evidence, he adds, "would suggest that lung cancer shows such a relationship."

"Despite the clear cut clinical evidence that tobacco is irritating" to mouth tissues, he told the American Dental Assn. yesterday, "there is no evidence that cancer has shown an increase to parallel the growing use of tobacco in recent years."

Dr. Kreshover added:

"It appears, therefore, that varying environmental conditions prevailing at different sites may, in themselves, be protective or otherwise lessen the predisposition of cells to undergo malignant transformation."

Saliva Plays Part

Studies conducted by Dr. Kreshover at the Medical College of Virginia School of Dentistry showed that saliva might play an important role in what he called the resistance of mouth tissues to tobacco agents.

Experiments with mice, he said, showed little or no oral tissue change when lip regions were exposed to whole tobacco smoke. Similar exposure of the ear, he added, resulted in pre-cancerous damage.

Heat from smoking, he said, "is very unlikely" to be a significant factor in oral lesions associated with the use of cigarettes.

Second Report

In a second report on oral cancer, Dr. David Weisberger of the Harvard University School of Medicine, said a clinical study showed that tobacco is the most common irritant associated with leukoplakia, described as a condition which is sometimes pre-cancerous.

Dr. Weisberger said 275 patients with mouth cancer were involved in the studies and that 60 per cent of them had developed the cancers at the site of the leukoplakia. The highest incidence of leukoplakia was in pipe smokers, and the lowest in cigarette smokers, he said.

A third speaker, Dr. Hamilton B. G. Robinson of the Ohio State University's College of Dentistry, said:

"There appears to be little doubt that tobacco products may cause undesirable changes in the oral mucosa (tissues) but the exact relationship between smoking and oral cancer has not been established definitely."

Prediction Made 'Tight Money' Market to Last

Miami Beach, Fla., Oct. 2 (AP)—Executive committee members of the National Consumer Finance Assn. predict the "tight money" market will continue well into 1957.

The Association is an organization of loan companies. It opened its 42nd annual convention today.

Members of the group said yesterday they believed that present restrictions on credit would continue for some time.

William T. Christian of Chicago, president of the association, said "the money market is likely to get tighter before it eases up."

Restrictions on credit, Christian pointed out, are necessary to control tendencies toward inflation. Without them, he said, prices would likely be higher than they are.

All members of the executive committee agreed that the chief problem posed by the tight money market is how consumer credit may keep pace with the demand.

Spokesmen for the organization said its members are now lending at a rate that would amount to $3.5 billion this year, compared to $3 billion last year.

Change Reckless Driving Charge

A charge of reckless driving against Walter Williams, 56, of Lake Katrine, has been changed to a charge of driving with inadequate lights.

In a hearing before Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt a motion to dismiss the original charge was offered by Attorney Louis DiDonna. This request was granted by Judge Macholdt and the lesser charge substituted.

Complaint in the case, James Overbaugh, 18, of Lake Katrine, was then charged with operating a vehicle at a dangerous speed.

Both cases are pending before Judge Macholdt.

The arrest of Mr. Williams by Kingston state police followed a two-car collision on Route 9W about three-quarters of a mile north of Route 209.

Troopers said at the time that the arrest was on complaint of Overbaugh who told them he was proceeding north when the Williams car backed across the road from the west side into the northbound lane without lights.

He said he applied brakes and skidded on wet pavement into the Williams car.

Mr. Gazlay said that although only 15 persons attended the initial meeting, a great deal of interest in the community has been shown for such an organization and he hoped any prospective members would contact any of the officers for information about joining.

Shurter Advises Second Look at Insurance Checks

A number of veterans each month run the risk of allowing their National Service Life Insurance to lapse because they fail to take a second look before mailing their premium payments, Director Howard Shurter of the local Veterans Service Agency pointed out today.

Mr. Shurter said that each month the Veterans Administration receives checks and money orders that cannot be cashed, although they are intended to pay NSLI premiums. Many checks are not signed, others are made payable to companies and organizations that have no connection with the Veterans Administration.

Mr. Shurter warned that if a veteran who forgets to sign his check is near the end of his 31-day grace period, there is a particular danger that his insurance may lapse.

Checks and money orders should be made payable to the Veterans Administration and if,

for any reason, the veteran does not have a VA premium envelope and does not know his insurance number, he should make certain his payment is accompanied by his full name, address and service serial number.

Teamster Officer Will Urge End of Strike

New York, Oct. 2 (AP) — An officer of Teamsters Union Local 707 says he will urge members to end their piecemeal strike against long haul truckers today.

Secretary-Treasurer John Flaherty agreed last night to request a back-to-work move after the Local's International Union called for a halt to the strike.

Some drivers, however, talked among themselves of ignoring the back-to-work call.

The strike began at 12:01 a. m. yesterday after members of Local 707 rejected a 15-day extension. Local President Vincent Doyle said 185 of 280 trucking firms signed new contracts with the union yesterday. He said about 2,500 of the 3,500 strikers had returned to their jobs.

The dispute involved, in part, a union demand for steady work guarantees.

POINTED TOWARD TOMORROW—Cargo-ferrying rockets are shown at their launching area in this artist's conception of space craft which will carry supplies for man's first attempt to build an inhabited earth satellite. Scientists attending the Seventh International Astronautical Congress in Rome, Italy, were presented with the theory that such a project may be not too many years in the future. Man's second step toward the stars would presumably follow successful operation of the tiny, instrument-bearing earth satellites now being constructed for launching during the International Geophysical Year.

Saugerties VFW Post Receives National Award

Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, Veterans of Foreign Wars received the third place national award for its observance of Loyalty Day at the national convention of the VFW held recently at Dallas, Texas. Bernard E. McCutcheon, publicity chairman of the Loyalty Day committee announced.

The local veterans group will be awarded a plaque for its outstanding observance of Loyalty Day based on a scrap book containing newspaper clippings, pictures and an account of an essay contest conducted in conjunction with the annual event.

First and Second Named
VFW posts in Oklahoma City, Okla. and Elgin, Ill., received first and second place designation.

Commander William D. Brown, who with Mrs. John J. Wood Sr., vice-president of the Auxiliary served as co-chairmen of the event, said "We are extremely grateful for this honor and wish to extend our gratitude to our many friends whose fine cooperation made this award possible."

Following the judging of the Saugerties Post's scrap book it was forwarded for special judging to the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa. Last February the national organization of the VFW received the first place foundation award on the basis of its presentation of Loyalty Day observances throughout the nation.

To Fly Faster

Hawthorne, Calif., Oct. 2 (AP)—The Los Angeles Times says America's first supersonic twin-jet trainer will fly faster than several jet fighters now standing equipment for the air force. The plane, built by Northrop aircraft, also could be used as a single-place fighter or a two-place reconnaissance craft, reported The Times' aviation editor, Marvin Miles. Miles wrote that the plane's speed is reputed to be above 1,000 miles an hour.

X-Ray Units Are To Start Series On October 30th

Plans for the free chest X-ray survey in the southern part of Ulster county are now under way.

Following conferences with town supervisors and other community leaders, the organization of committees representing hundreds of citizens in the township will be carried on by the Ulster County TB and Health Association.

Miss Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary, said: Townships to be covered are, Lloyd, Marlborough, Plattekill, Gardiner and Shawangunk.

Two Units Out

The survey will start on October 30 with two mobile units of the State Department of Health at Highland and Marlborough, and continue until November 7. Locations include:

October 30 and 31, Highland High School.

November 1, Clintondale fire house.

November 2 and 5, Wallkill High School.

October 31 and November 1, Marlborough High School.

November 2, Plattekill School.

November 5, Gardiner Railroad station.

November 7, Walker Valley fire house.

Adults Urged by Hargrave

Dr. Dudley Hargrave, commissioner of health, urges that all adults over 15 years of age take advantage of the free chest X-ray program while the units are in the neighborhoods.

He declared that although TB death rates have declined sharply in the last 10 years, due largely to higher standards of living, improved methods of case finding, diagnosis and treatment, the number of new cases is not declining at the same rate. Many new cases are being reported but there is also a large number which are not known.

Doctor Hargrave said a person may have tuberculosis and not know it. Very often when discovered, it is too late and they may have innocently passed the germ on to others. The X-ray, he said, will discover lung tuberculosis before other symptoms appear, and urged every adult to have the free chest X-ray when the bus is in their neighborhood.

Fire Apparently Caused by Cigarette

Firemen were summoned Monday afternoon to extinguish a fire, apparently caused by a cigarette, in overstuffed furniture in a two-story frame and brick building at 147 Hasbrouck avenue.

Officer Carlo Perry reported at 1:20 p. m. that he saw smoke coming from the second floor of the building, owned and occupied on the first floor by Bessie Smith.

The fire started in overstuffed furniture in the second floor apartment of Louise Robinson, according to the fire department report, and three chairs were involved.

The fire was apparently caused by a cigarette, the report said. Engine 2, Truck 1, Union Hose and the Wicks salvage truck responded.

Checks Unclaimed

New York, Oct. 2 (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service here says it is holding two million dollars worth of unclaimed tax-refund checks for "lost" taxpayers. The checks are theirs for the asking. The 20,000 checks were mailed during the summer to metropolitan area addresses listed on 1955 tax forms. The checks were later returned as "undelivered."

An official said that in most cases the taxpayer moved after filing his return and left no forwarding address.

Bibby Is Pressing For More Jobs For Handicapped

An appeal was made today by Dr. Henry L. Bibby, president of United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County, Inc. to observe the true spirit of "Employ the Handicapped Week" by hiring cerebral palsied persons.

Noting the week of October 7 to 13 has been proclaimed by President Eisenhower, Dr. Bibby urged that those with cerebral palsy be given a chance to prove their abilities on the job.

Make Good Workers

"People who have physical handicaps make excellent workers and those with cerebral palsy are no exception," said Dr. Bibby. He cited a recent report from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Office of Rehabilitation which showed that for the fiscal year, 1955, 704 palsied persons were rehabilitated and gainfully employed.

Of significance, Dr. Bibby continued, is the fact that the group's earnings increased from $80,600 to $1,220,000 the first year after rehabilitation. The report, he said, listed a wide variety of positions in professional, semi-professional, managerial, clerical, sales, service and personal lines. "This is most encouraging and proves that the cerebral palsied can be self-supporting if only given an opportunity."

SCOUTING FOR VOTER TRENDS

We are in the thick of the political pulse-taking season.

Reporters and other opinion samplers are combing the country. Generally speaking, this trend-searching is quite different from that practiced even a few years ago.

In former days the method was to tap the views of Democratic and Republican county chairmen around the nation. They were assumed to know pretty accurately how voter sentiment was running in their bailiwicks, and they usually did.

The coming of the public opinion polls added a new dimension to the business. The pollsters sampled voters' views first hand, on what was declared to be a scientific basis reflecting a national cross-section.

Now we've moved a step beyond these generalized poll-taking methods to the technique of pin-pointing sensitive areas which experience has shown give the sharpest indications of a trend.

Samuel Lubell, presently disclosing his 1956 findings in American newspapers, has been the real pioneer in this field. His past researches enabled him to call many elections accurately—especially the 1952 and 1954 battles.

Lubell's knowledge of past voting performance in America is vast and detailed. He plots his inquiries and his findings against a backdrop of economic, social, religious and cultural factors which give the story added meaning.

Analyzing elections is the art of measuring major changes of sentiment, since only by such changes does one party unseat another.

Consequently, the key man in Lubell's searches is the switching voter—the one who perhaps voted for Mr. Truman in 1948, turned to President Eisenhower in 1952, and is going for Adlai Stevenson this time. Or the one who have traveled a Dewey-Stevenson-Eisenhower course.

This season everybody's after the switching voter. The New York Times has several teams canvassing the nation. The Wall Street Journal has been hunting him down. One midwestern farmer tucked away on a remote dirt road complained he'd been visited by two reporters within a week.

The American voter himself is really responsible for all this activity in campaign time. He isn't the predictable fellow he used to be.

He's far better educated and informed than he was even a decade or two ago. Changes in the techniques of communication keep him abreast of issues. He's more keenly aware of how they may affect his pocketbook and his general welfare.

This broad sensitivity means that many issues—not just one or two—usually determine elections nowadays. And no one can be sure too far ahead what will be the decisive combination of issues.

Because the voters know so much more, the old sampling methods inevitably produce less. Thus those who want to try to figure what will happen have no choice but to get out and leg it hard.

It's all to the good. We're getting the best election reporting ever.

And, more broadly significant, it indicates the American voter has moved to a new plane in direct response to the facts of his world as he has learned them.

BANNERITIS

The East German Communists are unusual specimens of the breed in that they have now come up with a really good idea. They say that too many political slogans are plastered up in public places, and disfiguring the landscape. In other words, East Germany suffers from "banneritis."

Banneritis is an American disease, also. Long after election the names of candidates, some successful but the great majority defeated, clutter up poles and public buildings. This is because candidates don't bother to take them down, and nobody else forces them to do so.

If local statute books have no such law, one should be passed, compelling every candidate who posts his name in a public

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
A VERY DULL CAMPAIGN

The 1956 Election is less than six weeks away as this is being written. The campaign shows some motion and there have been some speeches. But the whole effort, of both parties, is astonishingly dull. Maybe the reformers have succeeded in achieving what they like to call a "clean election," that is, one in which there is such a deference to the other side that the whole business is meaningless. There is no genuine discussion, no ardent debate, no intense excitement. It is very dull. The best effort of the Democrats thus far is to accuse Dr. Milton Eisenhower of favoring Peron, when as a matter of fact, Peron got the American taxpayers' money, more than $100,000,000 during the prior Administration.

Here in New York State there is supposed to be a contest for the United States Senatorship between Robert Wagner, Democrat, and Jacob Javits who is running on the Republican ticket. It is more like an "Apres vous, Gaston," politeness. Nothing happens. Senator Irving Ives has tried to make a martyr of Javits who does not look like a martyr of any kind and Wagner seems to go about his business of being Mayor of New York City as though there were no campaign at all. Everything is very peaceful and quiet and nobody discusses anything very seriously or with fire in his eye. It is very dull. The greatest effort of the Republicans thus far has been to say that Mayor Wagner's successor, should he be elected, Abe Stark, while a very decent person, is not trained to be a Mayor, he running a haberdashery and clothing store. So did Harry Truman at one time. Also Javits says that he knows more about foreign affairs than Wagner does. But nobody boasts about knowing anything about the United States.

Of course, something could happen to brighten the campaign, a slip of the tongue might lead to a bit of self-exposure on the part of a candidate, such as the proposal for a four-day work week which could outpace American production even in American markets unless accompanied by an isolationist high tariff. From the general attitude, it would look as though there were nothing to argue about, no vast differences of opinion, no varieties of public opinion. The Republican campaign is centered on "I like Ike"; the Democratic campaign on the hole in Stevenson's shoe.

The real issue, of course, is the Negro question. Both candidates are helping and are asking everybody to obey the law as interpreted by the Supreme Court. But what has actually happened in the South is more serious, more fundamental than the Warren opinion on segregation in the schools. What has happened in the South is that an issue which both white and Negro communal leaders believed that they were handling well, has become an explosive as a result of the Supreme Court decision that it reflects in many aspects, similar anti-white movements in other parts of the world. And the white population has organized movements for States Rights that have actually put a Third Party on the ballot in some states with T. Coleman Andrews, the former Eisenhower tax collector who hates the income tax, as its candidate. The Third Party will not, of course, send Andrews to the White House but it gives evidence of being a rallying post for those who are weary of the South being the tail to a Northern kite.

On the other hand, the enormous migration of Southern Negroes to the large industrial cities of the North, cities which have not usually been Democratic but have become so, forces the Democratic politicians to view their fortunes with strabismic eyes; in fact, they are so cross-eyed that what they see in the North frightens them more than what they see in the South and both frighten them plenty.

Politicians dislike even to mention the Negro question, but that it what faces the country where about 10 per cent of the population thinks in terms of equal rights which the Negroes contend are unavailable to them because of their color. And in the South, there are those who insist that Negroes should not have equal social rights no matter what economic advantages they enjoy. The social fear is inter-marriage.

Questions of this nature cannot be buried in the sterile sands of campaign verbiage. (Copyright, 1956, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.
WHEN SHOULD SEDATIVES AND HYPNOTICS BE USED

We were speaking yesterday of the sedative drugs (which quiet overstimulation of the central nervous system without producing drowsiness or sleep) and the narcotics (which in proper doses produce normal sleep), and just when they should be used. In general, of course, these drugs should be used as temporary crutches for a few days or, at most, a very few weeks. There may, of course, be the rare and exceptional case, but the physician must then carefully examine his own motives as well as maintain careful control over the medication of the patient. "Too often it appears easier for us as physicians to continue these drugs, and often in increasing amounts, then to take the time or make the uncomfortable effort to bring the patient face to face with his real problems."

Twelve suggestions as to when these drugs may be used (for short terms only, of course) are:

1. Severe emotional reactions to acute stressful life situations (such as critical illness or death of a beloved person).
2. To help severe anxiety or hysterical symptoms until a definite treatment program can be established.
3. Control of acute excited states when the non-use of drugs is inadequate or impractical.
4. Control of acute convulsions such as in tetanus (lockjaw) or those caused by other drugs such as strychnine.
5. Assurance of relaxation and sleep before surgery or other anxiety-causing procedures.
6. To supplement other drugs such as Aspirin in helping pain and physical discomfort.
7. Control of hyperthyroid (overactive thyroid gland) symptoms during preparations for more definite treatment.
8. To help the symptoms in motion sickness or inflammation of the inner ear.
9. To produce obstetric amnesia (loss of memory).
10. For anesthetic usages (by a competent anesthesiologist).
11. To produce sleep for an E.E.G. (electroencephalographic examination) which is a study of the waves produced by brain processes.
12. To aid in psychiatric diagnosis.

For a patient soon to be discharged from the hospital, it is wise to reduce the dosage of sedative and hypnotic drugs progressively rather than waiting to reduce them after he has returned to the pressures of outside living.

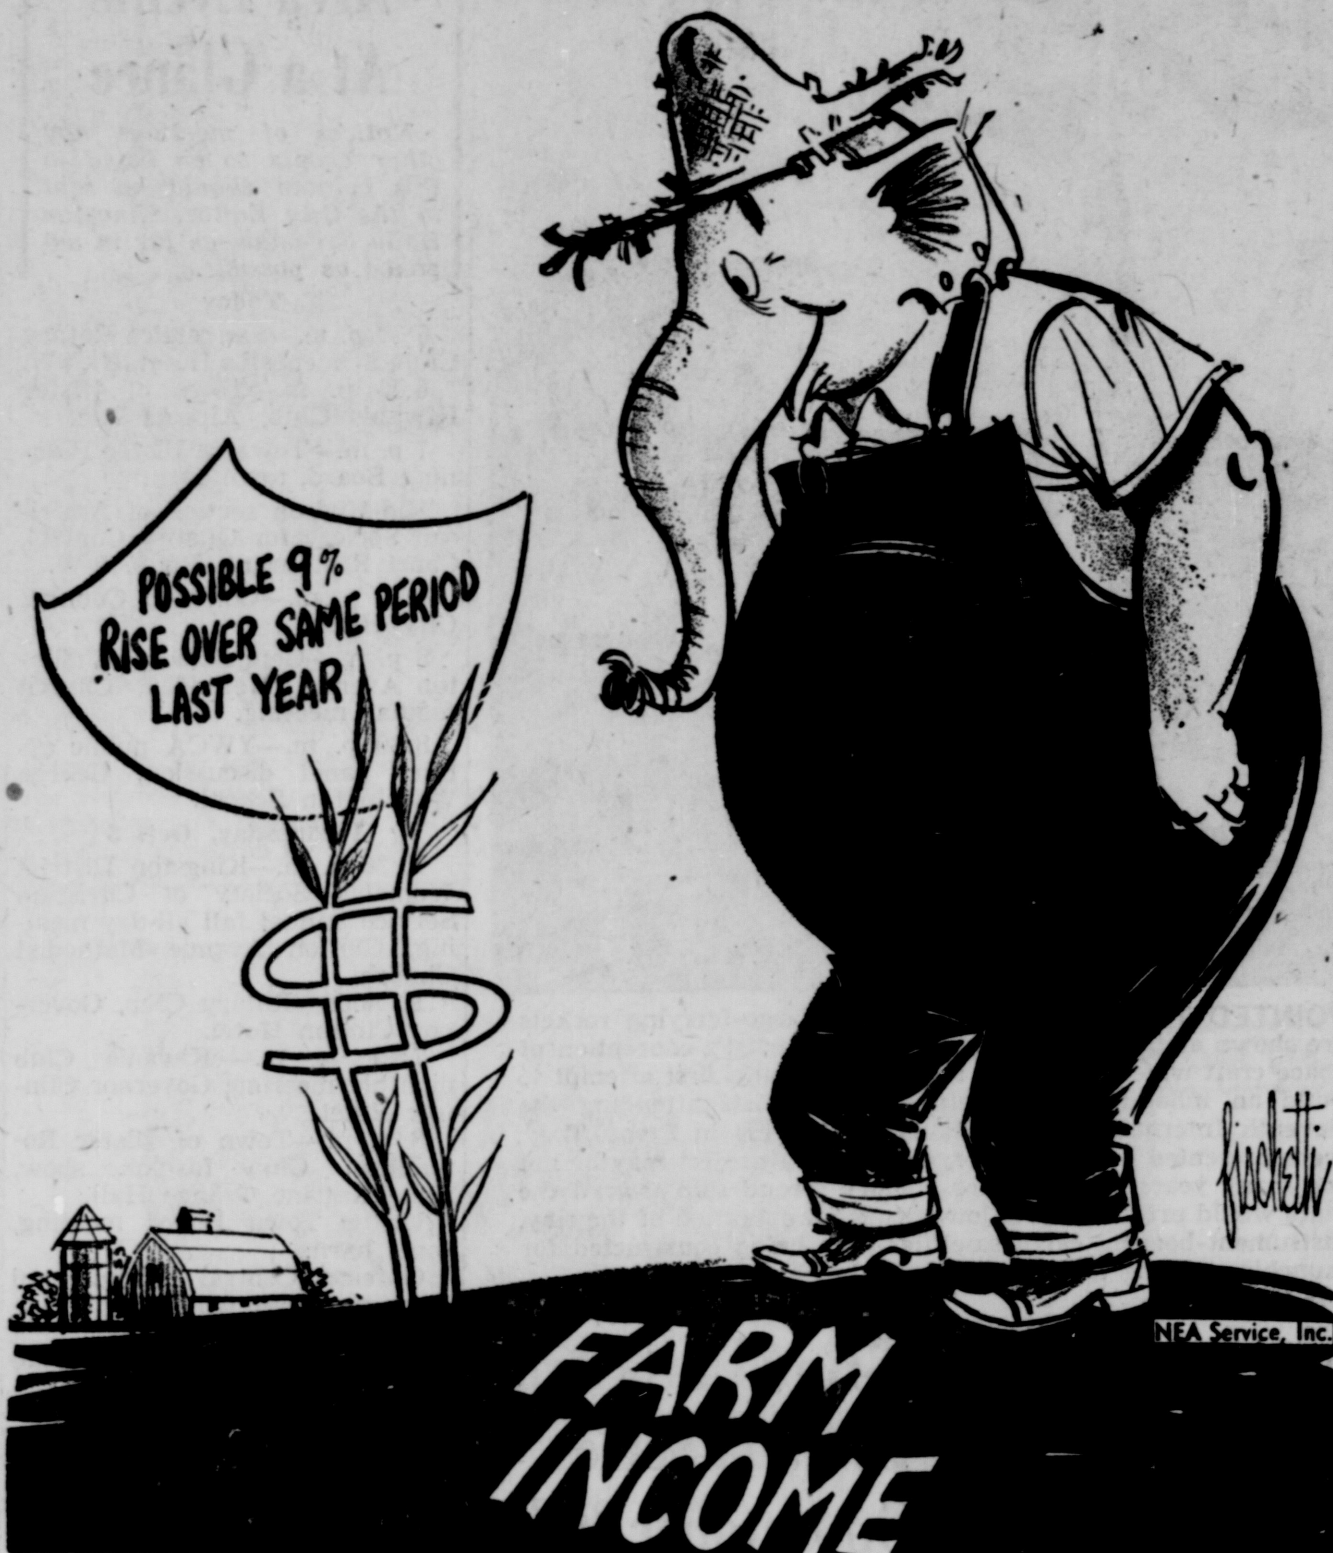

Treatment of chronic intoxication or addiction to any of the sedative and hypnotic drugs is generally the same. It should never be attempted on out-patient status. After the patient has been brought into hospital, care should be taken to withdraw the drugs slowly enough to prevent severe withdrawal symptoms. The speed of withdrawal will depend on the type of drug involved. We never know when we may meet a life situation in which we may need such drugs and we should know something about them.

The Harvest Could Be Votes

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Oct. 1.—A warning from the Department of Agriculture said coyotes and other wild animals might side up as tame as a kitten if they had rabies and that it was dangerous to have truck with them. They would just be fixing to get close enough to attack.

So when a little black animal came through the gate as Mrs. Wales was watering her zinnias and came at her, friendly and wriggling, she dropped the hose and ran into the house. She looked through the window and the little black animal was lapping the nozzle. The drought here has been unbroken by any splash of rain since June 30. Not a drop in three months and the patrolman on the night watch said the deer were coming down off the mountains onto the flat to drink from the ranchers' waterholes. He said at one place three coyotes got into the swimming pool and splashed around.

This little black animal seemed to be a lost dog but Mrs. Wales was a little too conscious of the warning from the Department of Agriculture to take a chance. She got inside and let him have the nozzle.

There are usually some lost or strayed dogs in the desert. A few years ago, on the River Road, I found five weanling puppies playing over the carcass of their mother. She had been killed. Not run over, but stoned. She was half-buried under stones. I rounded up the pups and drove to the city pond. It was toward supper time and the pound-master did not want to open up. He asked: "Where did you find them?" I knew the city pond would not accept dogs found outside the city limits and the River Road is way outside. "I found them down close to the southern Pacific Station, right in town," I said. So he opened the gate and took them in.

A few months ago I heard a strange cry; not a bark nor a yap and certainly not the melodious yodel of the coyote. I guessed it was an owl. There are strange bird-cries in the night in the desert.

The cry continued so I went to the door, flashed on a floodlight and a little black animal scooted out of the shawl of vines which cover the butane tank. He scooted fast but it was clear that he was just a little black dog. The desert is a bad place for a domestic dog to be alone. He is sociable and humorous by nature and dependent on people for his keep and company and sympathy.

Alone in the wilds he may be hit by a rattler or fall in the pack of coyotes, a wildcat may get him. There are poisonous toads which exude a saliva that causes agony when a dog pounces on one of them. There are scorpions and tarantulas and glass.

A little black mutt crouching alone in the vines on a pitch black night is a forlorn proposition. This is not his world. He belongs in a family circle, with people.

I called and whistled, the wheedling note, but he was gone so I put out a few fragments of steak from dinner on the walk by the bedroom door. In the morning they were gone. Next evening I put out some more by the way of enticement. About midnight the coyotes held choir practice back near the garbage can. I got the shotgun and aimed it in their general direction although people say they are ventriloquists and you can't tell where they are by the sound. I let fly the first barrel. In the night it made a great bang.

Again there was a rustle in the ivy by the butane tank and the little black mutt scurried out and ran panicky into the blackness. I whistled and called but he did not come. A few minutes later, the coyotes really gave out. Sinatra, Johnny Ray and Presley all together.

The little black mutt hasn't come back.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington (NEA)—There is no rest for Adlai Stevenson from now till election day.

From here on, it will be a six weeks' continuous campaign. The idea is to have Stevenson come face to face with as many people as possible.

His vice presidential running mate, Estes Kefauver, is doing the same thing. They are traveling by plane, train, bus, auto caravan—streetcar, horse and buggy or on foot where necessary.

The great problem which the Stevenson campaign managers say they'll have is to find time for their man to get off in a corner some place by himself to do his writing.

This, the Stevenson handlers have learned, is an essential part of their candidate's make-up. He still likes to do his own reading, thinking and writing.

There are from 40 to 50 advisers now shooting ideas at Stevenson all the time. This campaign staff sifts ideas and submits drafts of sections for speeches. But when the writing of an important speech has to be done, Adlai is the original do-it-yourself man.

This explains why he is supplementing his speeches this year with a series of written

Today in National Affairs

Clergymen Urged to Call For Truth in Campaigns

Washington, Oct. 2.—When a Presidential nominee goes to church to hear a sermon, must the minister grow so conscious of his presence as to feel called upon to articulate political buncum? Or is it a good opportunity to call forth truth and an end to the tricks of deception that plague modern politics?

Dr. A. Powell Davies, Unitarian minister here, had Adlai Stevenson in his congregation last Sunday and used the occasion not to expose the fraud and trickery involved in the so-called joke about "Joe Smith" but to glorify that individual in the role of the "forgotten man," as the Democratic campaigners did in New Deal days.

Joe Smith gag

The "Joe Smith" gag is supposed to be funny. Yet it is grimly analogous to the kind of parliamentary tactics—based on false premises—which is used in the filibusters in the Senate when, by a ruse, a minority of one gets the floor, talks on imaginary and irrelevant issue and blocks the will of other senators who want to vote on the pending question.

For what really happened at the Republican National Convention has never been put in its true light by the Democratic campaigners. A delegate wanted to get the floor to make a nomination for Vice President. He favored a certain candidate who had written a letter to the chairman asking that his name not be presented. When the chairman of the convention asked the delegate the name of the man he did want to nominate, the answer came: "Joe Smith."

"A Phony Stunt"

It was a trick by a delegate—in a meeting operating under parliamentary rules—to get the floor. It was a device to fool the chairman and the convention. It was a phony stunt. It should be denounced from every pulpit as the deception which it patently was.

Instead, today the Democratic campaigners, including Adlai Stevenson, have latched on to the "Joe Smith" episode because they think it somehow embarrasses the Republicans. The Democrats have tried to put over the far-fetched and false idea that any one with the name of Joe Smith couldn't be placed in nomination at a Republican convention.

This kind of distortion is natural with some politicians, but the nation is getting tired of wisecracking and flippant comments on serious issues.

Trickery and misrepresentation, of course, are expected of politicians, and this time "campaign oratory" has sunk to a low level. But a minister of the gospel, without involving himself in personalities, can appeal for truth in campaigning.

Some Obviously Political

There are many ministers in America who preach sermons about truth and sincerity and who manage to do it without seeming to take part in political campaigns. There are some, to be sure, who are obviously political or partisan, and their listeners are well aware of it.

But Mr. Davies, who undertook to preach a sermon about a phase of today's political controversy—the "Joe Smith" episode at the Republican National Convention—made it appear that the "common man" is being neglected. On the stump this would be forgiven as partisan but in a pulpit it sounds like a mockery of all the welfare programs of the modern state in recent years.

Dr. Davies spoke of "Joe Smith" as having been regarded sometimes as "a statistic" or "consumer" and said that Joe Smith "feels, sometimes strongly, sometimes in mild bewilderment, that he is being left out—or that he is being too much taken in."

Many Make the Grade

The minister might better have told of the many Joe Smiths who have risen from poverty and humble surroundings in free America to make the grade. He could have pointed to several persons eminent in American life—in the churches, in the press, in the colleges, in the world of business and labor leadership—who have risen to fame with the name, Joe Smith. He could have pointed to the Joe Smiths who have laid down their lives for their country in World War 1 and World War 2 and in the Korean War. There is no reason to classify all the Joe Smiths as having the same outlook on life or attitude toward public questions—as the politicians like to picture them—in a standardized category of citizens because they have the same name.

What the American people would like in this season to hear on Sundays from the teachers of truth is something that the parishioners can take to heart on all days of the week—something that proclaims how the Christian ethic and philosophy is violated nowadays by the politicians who sacrifice principle and truth just to get elected.

There might even have been a scriptural quotation cited as advice to present-day candidates: "What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Surf Board Traffic

Honolulu (AP)—Ever see a surf board traffic jam? The Board of Harbor Commissioners says the beach at Waikiki is becoming one big jumble of surf boards and swimmers daily, and it wants the authority to do something about it. The harbor board now controls the water only to

Trick in Time Saves Defeat

How would you plan to make three no-trump with today's hand? West leads the four of spades, you play low from the dummy, and East puts up the jack. Take it from here.

You must not win the first trick with the queen of spades! This refusal is the key play of the hand.

Let's see what happens if you win the first trick. You must go after the diamonds to have any chance for your contract. East wins the first diamond trick with the ace, and his spade return allows West to establish the rest of the spades. West gains the lead with the king of diamonds in time to set the contract with his long spade suit.

There is a different story to tell if you refuse the first trick. You will still win a total of two spade tricks, because now your queen-ten gives you a finesse through West's king. There is never any doubt about how many spade tricks you can win, but it is merely a question of whether you win the first and

Sees Enough Meat At Good Prices

Chicago, Oct. 2 (AP)—The head of the American Meat Institute said Monday housewives can expect adequate supplies of meat at reasonable prices through next spring.

J. Morrell Foster, board chairman of the Institute, said beef breeding herds appear to be increasing, while supplies of pork will drop somewhat from the near-record total of last year.

Foster spoke at the golden anniversary convention of the AMI, the meat packing industry's trade association.

He declared consumers will find bargains in hamburger, pot roast and finer cuts of beef. In pork, Foster said, the best buys will be chops, bacon, loin roasts and ham.

Army Aviation, the program permits early screening of cadets' adjustability for flying while in a student status. Successful completion of the flight course will qualify participants to apply for private pilot's licenses.

Hercules Cited for Safety Over Two-Year Period at Area Plant

Two representatives of an area industry were among those at a state safety conference last week able to say that their firm can look back over a two-year period without a tabular lost time injury.

They were Edward K. Lefren, works manager at the Port Ewen plant of Hercules Powder Co., and George R. Mustaparta, personnel and safety supervisor. At Governor Harriman's statewide Worker Safety Conference in Albany, Thursday and Friday, it was reported that on-the-job accidents are costing New York employers and employees about 750 million dollars a year.

Plant Cited Twice

Hercules' Port Ewen plant has received two commendations for its safety record, one from L. W. Greiner, manager of safety in the explosives department, and the other from J. D. Hayes, assistant general manager of the department.

In communications from the main office of the company at Wilmington, Del., they said to Works Manager Lefren:

L. W. Greiner — "We are pleased to have the opportunity of sending you the Award of Merit Certificate issued to Port Ewen works for operating two years without a tabular lost-time injury."

Employees Encouraged

"Please extend our congratulations to Port Ewen employees, and tell them we are counting on them to extend this excellent record for many years, and to continue to be both the explosives department and the company leader in safety performance."

J. D. Hayes — "It was a real pleasure to hear the good news that Port Ewen has completed three million man-hours without a lost-time injury. Every employee should feel proud of this fine record."

"Please extend Wilmington's congratulations to all Port Ewen employees and tell them that their outstanding safety performance is a source of inspiration to everyone."

Credits Workers

Mr. Lefren stressed that "full credit for these achievements belongs to the Port Ewen employees, whose combined individual efforts and teamwork have made the attainment of such goals possible."

"Port Ewen is again looking forward to another all-time high in safety on March 16, 1957," Manager Lefren said. "At that time, with a continued perfect record, the Port Ewen employees will again be eligible to win the Hercules Powder Co. general manager's safety award."

Mr. Greiner considered the New York state conference so vital that he traveled from Wilmington to join approximately 1,000 management, labor, insurance and safety representatives at the two-day parley in Chancellor's Hall, Albany.

Safety Major Concern

Hercules is one of the industries that has an effective safety program as demonstrated by the Port Ewen plant's record.

Manager Lefren said that safety is a major concern at Hercules' Port Ewen plant, with an efficient program directed by Supervisor Mustaparta. George Sheldon, assistant supervisor of safety, hold regular scheduled sessions with department supervisors, carry the message safety back to every employee in the plant.

Rigid Checks Made

Regular tours are made by the safety staff through the plant for rigid checks. Manager Lefren feels that Hercules' educational program and cooperation of the workers keeps the explosives plant safety record clean.

He concurs with Joseph R. Shaw, president of Associated Industries of New York, who told the conference that "we must build safety into our thinking just as effectively as we build it into our environment."

Mr. Lefren said this has always been the aim of Hercules.

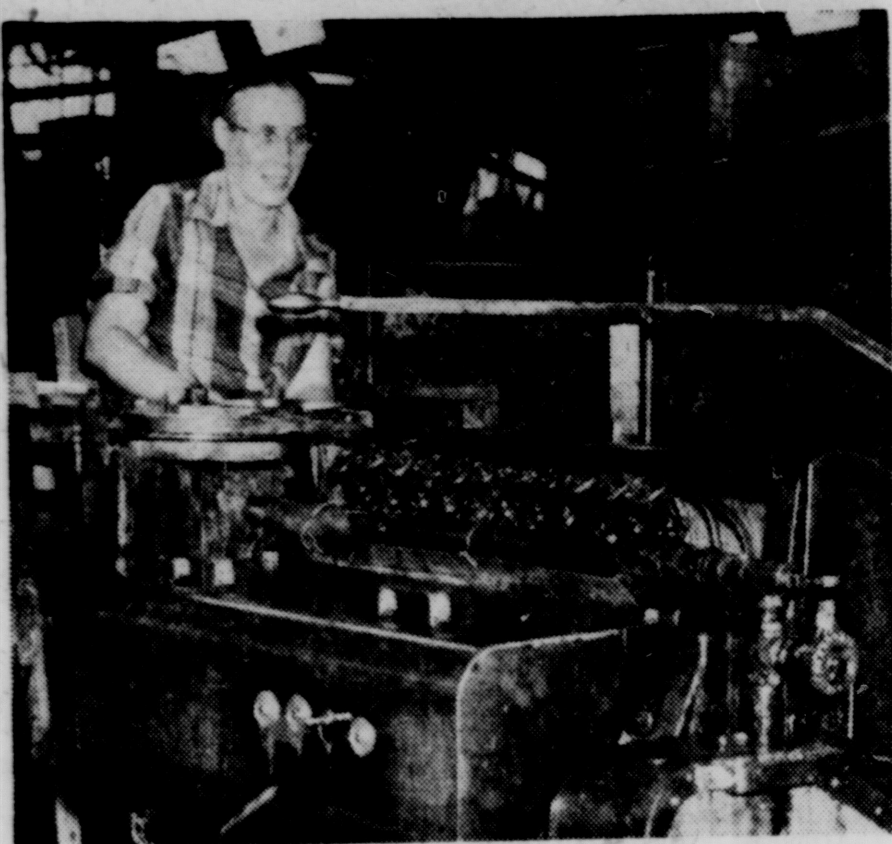

Mr. Lefren said the truth of this statement is borne out by Hercules' safety record.

No Authority, He Says

Montreal, Oct. 2 (AP) — Law professor Frank Scott of McGill University says the Canadian government does not have authority to revoke a 1680 treaty and take over Indian lands covered by it. He testified at a superior court hearing yesterday. The Caughnawaga Indians are asking an injunction to prevent the St. Lawrence-Seaway Authority from taking over 1,200 acres of their reservation. Scott said the Indians' right to the land was confirmed by a Franco-British agreement in 1760 and the 1763 treaty of Paris. Justice Andre Demers took the petition under advisement.

Auto Market Seen Expanding, Trend Toward Smaller Cars

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press
Automotive Editor

Detroit, Oct. 2 (AP) — A steadily expanding market for automobiles was predicted today by Roy Abernathy, vice president of American Motors Corp. (Nash-Hudson-Rambler).

Abernathy told representatives of press, radio, television and trade publications at a press review today that retail sales in 1957 should total between 6½ million and 6,700,000 units. They may total as much as 6,900,000 in each of the following two years, he said.

Record Sales Expected

"In the 1960's, with the growing population and a sharp upturn in family formation," he added, "automobile sales will reach levels never before experienced in the industry."

He said American Motors is setting its sights on 150,000 cars sales in the 1957 model year.

Abernathy said American Motors saw an important trend toward smaller cars like the Rambler produced in American Motors plants. At the same time, he said, "we are definitely counting on our big Nash and Hudson cars to increase our total share of the market."

Like Compact Cars

George Romney, American Motors president, holds to the conviction that there is a "rising interest in compact and small cars." Commenting on American Motors' prospects for the year immediately ahead, he said recently that much of its success will depend upon the philosophy of competing with other makes on a specialized basis, rather than "head-on in all price classes."

So far this year American Motors has built nearly 76,300 Hudson, Nash and Rambler cars. The total compares with 129,749 units in 1955. It recently switched over to 1957 model production. The new models of Hudson, Nash and Rambler will be introduced to the public later this month.

Meanwhile details of all the models are being withheld. It is known, however, that substantial styling changes have been made in all three lines. It also has been rumored that the 108-inch wheelbase Rambler model will have a V-8 engine as well as a six cylinder unit in the 1957 model line.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Isabel Doughty Heads Guild of Craftsmen

Woodstock, Oct. 2—The Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen held its annual meeting Monday afternoon, Sept. 24, at Mrs. Joshua Rosett's Shell/Cabin.

Acting President Isabel Doughty presided, expressing regret at the resignation of Konrad Cramer, for many years Guild president. New officers were elected as follows: Isabel Doughty, president; John Pike and Martin F. Comeau, vice presidents; Grace George, secretary; Toni Drake, treasurer.

The various committees then made their reports. Alice Cooke reported on finance. Courtenay Marvin on publicity and Louise Lindin on art exhibits. Mrs. Rosett gave an encouraging report for the education committee. She spoke of attendance in the jewelry and enameling classes taught by Joan Pond and in the weaving classes by Esther Sluizer; reported that students had spoken with enthusiasm of the class in silk screen under Jerry Jerominek and that many parents had expressed appreciation for the summer children's classes conducted by Gwendolyn Davies.

At present, a new and very popular class in hooked rug making is under Irene Snell. Though the class is full, Mrs. Rosett felt an extra pupil or two might be squeezed in.

In closing, Mrs. Rosett mentioned the new Museum of Contemporary Crafts, recently opened in West 52nd street, New York, as a source for inspiration and new ideas.

A report by Katharine Wangler on Guild Shop activities concluded the business portion of the meeting.

Guest speaker Mariska Karasz, teacher, lecturer and author, and today's foremost artist with the needle, illustrated a vivid talk with colored slides and examples of her art. Even embroidery is subject to the increased tempo of this age, and Miss Karasz has lifted this craft, popular 50 or so years ago, to the level of a fine art. She uses fabric and thread as an artist uses canvas and paint, and her work is bold and beautiful. Texture, line and color play dramatically in her hangings, rugs, screens and framed subjects, and her work is to be seen in galleries, museums and art collections throughout the country.

Tea followed adjournment of the meeting.

Guild of Craftsmen Hold First Exhibit

Woodstock, Oct. 2—The first art exhibit at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen opened Saturday at the Guild Galleries.

As is customary six separate showings will be arranged between now and next summer. Louise Lindin, assisted by Konrad Cramer, is in charge of the exhibits. Among the art now showing are works of William Pachner, Mollie Higgins Smith, Betty Bauman, Earle Winslow, Elizabeth Woiceske, Elfrida Borkmann, Lucie Bayard, Julia Leaycraft, Rodney Lethbridge, Mark Vukovic, Frances Stein, Valerie Swenson, Frank Chase, Clarence Bolton, Marion Bullard, Florence Elgar, Reginald Wilson, Anna Carolan, Haeberlin, Eugene Speicher, Kate Myers, Zulma Parker, Anton Otto Fischer, Madeline Wiltz, Charles Rosen, Eugenie McAvoy, John McClellan, Agnes Bierhals, Konrad Cramer, Georgina Kiltgaard, Helen Shotwell, Alfeo Faggi and John Pike.

Farewell Service Set at St. Gregory's

Woodstock, Oct. 2—On Sunday, October 7, the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, vicar of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, and his parishioners will bid farewell to the corner as a place of worship. The new St. Gregory's will be sufficiently completed for the following Sunday service, Oct. 14, at 12 noon.

The old bell, faithfully rung by Houston Richards since 1952 will keep silent, and altar candles finally dimmed. The small stove that comforted all in winter months no longer will need early attention. With the move into more commodious and comfortable quarters will come physical relief, but it is likely that not one parishioner will leave the corner without nostalgic memories.

In heat and cold, in rain and snow, the people came, the young and the aged, the hale and the halt, crowding into the small pews, sometimes into the aisle and onto the lawn when weather permitted. Not only was the corner a place for village worshippers but it became a point of interest to visitors, and the door was left unlocked for those who wished to enter.

Surely when the door is finally closed, an echo of the fine organ music by Inez Carroll Richards will remain, the luminous shadows of church lights and candles still play about the place, and peace and goodwill dwell within those walls, regardless of to what future use the corner is put.

Originally the guest house of the late Frederica L. Milne, the corner now reverts to the use of its owner, Walter L. Balk, who frequently lit the Sunday fires and plowed away the snow. Mr.

Balk generously permitted the corner to remain a church, pending the completion of the new building.

Athena Snyder Weds Eugene Groelle In Double Ring Ceremony on Sept. 22

Miss Athena Helen Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Snyder of Hurley was united in marriage with Eugene Clarence Groelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Groelle of Manitowoc, Wis., Saturday, Sept. 22 at 3 p. m. in the Hurley Dutch Reformed Church.

The Rev. Herbert C. Schmalzreid, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. LeRoy Vogt was at the organ and Mrs. Peter Palen sang several selections.

Baskets of white gladioli decorated the church for the occasion and the pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full length gown of lace and tulle styled with a scoop neckline and a fitted bodice. Accenting the neckline was a pattern of tiny seed pearls and the bouffant skirt featured appliques of hand clipped lace. The French illusion fingertip veil fell from a crown of nylon braid.

The bride carried a white orchid on a white bible.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Irwin Decker of Washington, D. C. She wore a gown of romance blue chiffon, shirred and fitted, with a scoop neckline and a flowering floor length skirt. The circular tulle veil was secured to a crown of nylon braid also in romance blue. Mrs. Decker carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Faith Gersback of Hurley and Mrs. Nicholas Radenberg of DeWitt Lake road. Their gowns of ballet blue were similar in style to that of the matron of honor. They carried bouquets of pink roses.

Milton Groelle, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers included Harry Johnson of White Plains and Raymond Foisy of Pawtucket, R. I.

Following the church wedding, a reception was held at the Alpine for approximately 70 guests.

Mrs. Groelle is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed in the Military Products Division of IBM in Kingston.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Lincoln High School in Manitowoc, Wis., attended Milwaukee School of Engineering and served three years with the U. S. Coast Guards. He is now employed as a field engineering student by IBM in Kingston.

Following a wedding trip to New York city, Mr. and Mrs. Groelle will reside at Sawkill Trailer Park, Sawkill.

WHEN ACKNOWLEDGMENT NOT RECEIVED

"We sent flowers to the funeral of the mother of a friend of ours, but nothing ever has been said to us about them. I have seen this friend several times, but she said nothing and no written acknowledgment has been made. I do happen to know that others have received notes of thanks. I am wondering if they ever received our flowers or whether the card was lost. What can I do about it?"

Ask your friend exactly that question—"I know you have sent letters of thanks to other people, and not having heard from you, I am wondering if the flowers that we sent you were lost."

Asking Them to Leave

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the most courteous way of telling formal acquaintances, who came to call and stay longer than expected, that it is necessary for them to leave? In the case I am referring to we knew the visitors only slightly and did not know how to tell them that we had to dress in order to keep a dinner engagement.

Answer: Say simply, "I hate to have to ask you but we have to dress for an 8 o'clock dinner way over on the other side of town." No one could resent this.

Widow Wears Ring

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been a widow for ten years and during this time have always worn my wedding ring. I have never gone with any man since my husband's death, until lately. Several times we have been mistaken for husband and wife and I thought perhaps I caused this confusion by wearing my husband's ring. Is a widow supposed to discard her wedding ring? Is the rule any different for a divorcee?

Answer: A widow wears her wedding ring until she replaces it with another; a divorcee usually takes hers off. Widow or divorcee may wear her ring on her right hand if she wishes to show that she is no longer married.

When should a gentleman offer his arm to the lady with him? This and many other questions on manners in public are answered by Mrs. Post in leaflet E-15, "Manners in Public." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Successful Woman Engineer Advises Career Girls on Behavior in Offices

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

I agree with Mrs. Florence Beebe Anderson, a mechanical design engineer from Chicago, that it's time for women to stop beating the drums for "equal rights" and "equal recognition in business" and make use of what they have.

"After all," says Mrs. Anderson, "we've had recognition as women since Eve first offered Adam the apple."

Women do not need to try to act like men during business hours, as Mrs. Anderson points out. If most business women, secretaries and professional women would just be themselves from 9 to 5, things would be much better for everybody concerned.

Flattery is just as effective in the business world as it is in social contacts, says Mrs. Anderson. Every woman knows that flattery succeeds far better than nagging to achieve a desired objective with husband or boyfriend. The same thing is true of the boss.

For instance, if you want a raise, she advises, don't start complaining about how you can't afford a new pair of nylon, have to go without lunches and haven't had your hair done in three weeks. Don't keep reminding the boss that you're doing twice as much work as you're paid for. This will only put him on the defensive.

Instead tell him how fortunate you are to have such a brilliant and understanding employer, who understands the necessity of keeping up appearances in the business world. Tell him how you'd hate to work for an old fogey who didn't appreciate the importance of such things as hairdos and nylons. Tell him you admire the way he handled that big deal the other day, and how glad you were to be able to produce the right file at the right time.

The woman who understands human relations is the one who is going to get ahead in the business world, says Mrs. Anderson. Women naturally have more tact and sensitivity than men, as a rule, and often could straighten out a tense business crisis simply by exercising their intuitive knowledge of what makes people tick.

A woman who is not afraid to be herself in the office can make life much pleasanter and simpler for her associates, and probably will have an opportunity to move ahead to more responsible jobs as she demonstrates her ability to deal with human beings.

Of course she needs to keep her professional and technical skills brushed up at the same time, so that she won't be put in the position of the secretary

Well here it is, October already and you know what? I notice that you have had the heat turned on quite a bit and I feel it. You know it is awfully dry—let's get those humidifying pans for the radiators we talked about last Winter. Jimmy Winters, who has that lovely piano store at 117 Clinton avenue, says he has read articles that claim that most homes in this locality are drier, by actual test, than the Sahara Desert in Winter. Let's do something about it this year, shall we?—Adv.

She wore a gown of Miramist taffeta, princess fashion, with an Empire bodice, long tapered sleeves and a modified Sabrina neckline of scalloped Alencon lace embroidered in seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The full skirt terminated in a dust ruffled brush train. The triple tiered French illusion veil, chapel length, cascaded from a crown of pleated tulle with Alencon lace hand-clipped medallions. The bride carried an orchid on a white prayer book.

Mrs. Harold Hutton was the matron of honor for her sister. She was attired in a gown of larkspur nylon chiffon, fashioned with a shirred and molded bodice, bateau neckline and short sleeves. Trade Mark Reg. By Junius

At a large party, Mrs. Henry Clay, chaperoning a young lady, passed through a room where gentlemen were playing cards. Mr. Clay among them.

Young Lady—Is this a common practice?

Mrs. Clay—Yes, they always play when they get together.

Young Lady—Doesn't it distress you to have Mr. Clay gamble?

Mrs. Clay (composedly)—No, my dear, he most always wins.

A good woman inspires a man; a brilliant one interests him; a beautiful one fascinates him, but a sympathetic one GETS HIM!

The wan-looking private had reported on sick-call.

Major—What's wrong with you?

Private—I have a pain in my abdomen, sir.

Major—Abdomen, my foot! You've got a bellyache, man. Don't you know yet that only second lieutenants have abdomens?

Ralph—How did you make your neighbor keep his hens in his own yard?

Jake—One night I hid half a dozen eggs under a bush in my garden, and next day I let him see me gather them.

The human race seems to have improved everything except people.

A man from the city returned to his native country village after a twenty years' absence, and was inquiring of Uncle Josh about all his old schoolmates.

Man—What became of Tom Smith?

Uncle Josh—Well, Tom tried farming for a while and failed at that. Then he attended law school, and after three years trying to make a living at law in the county seat he failed at that.

Man (interrupting)—That's too bad. Tom was a good fellow! Everybody liked him. I'm sorry to hear that he's such a failure.

Uncle Josh—Failure! He's our congressman.

Two explorers were guests at a dinner given by the Adventurers Club. One of the men brought an Eskimo from the North Pole, and the other brought a similar resident from the region of the South Pole. There was considerable curiosity as to how they would greet each other. It worked out quite simply. For the Northern Eskimo said: "Club-glub."

And the Southerner replied: "Glub-glub, you-all."

Love is pretty much like eating mushrooms. By the time you find out whether it's good for you, it's too late!

Psychiatrist—Now don't worry about your habit of talking to yourself. That's nothing to be alarmed about.

Unhappy Patient—Maybe not, Doc, but I'm such a darned old bore!

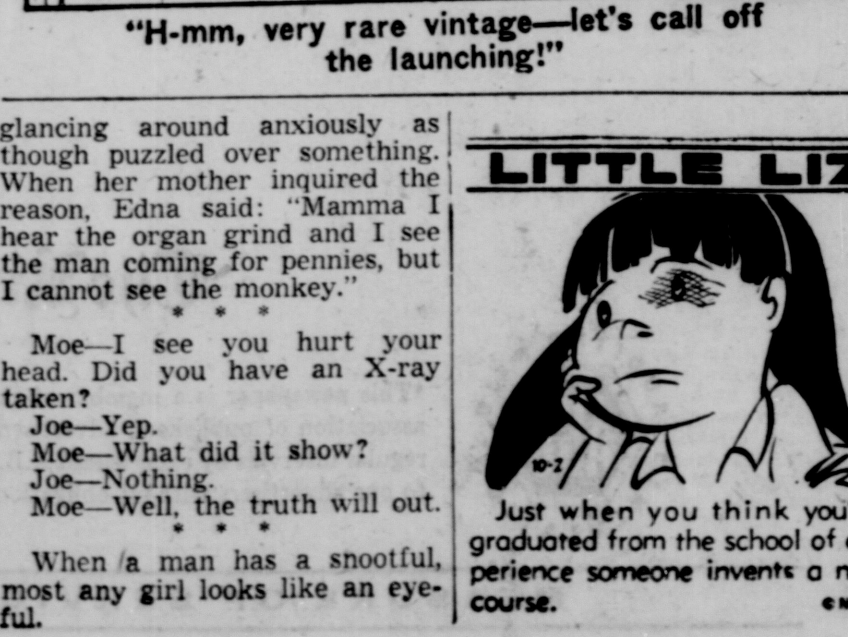

Old Lady (visiting State Prison)—I suppose, my poor man, it was poverty brought you to this.

Counterfeiter—On the contrary, mum, I was just coining money.

It was three-year-old Edna's first time in church. She sat very still until midway through the service, when she began

Yankees Rule 7-5 Favorites to Dethrone Brooklyn Dodgers

Ford and Maglie Likely Starters At Ebbets Field

By JOE REICHLER
Brooklyn, Oct. 2 (AP)—The well-rested New York Yankees ruled a stout 7½ to 5 choice to dethrone the champion Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1956 World Series which starts tomorrow at Ebbets Field but the National Leaguers had plenty of supporters, too.

Bobby Bragan, who gained stature as a manager even in Pittsburgh's three season-ending losses to Brooklyn, picked the Dodgers to defeat the Yankees.

"All they have to do is play the kind of ball they played against us in those last three days," Bragan said. "Those guys were simply great."

Whitey Ford

A major league umpire, who will remain unidentified even though he will not work in the series, thought the Dodgers would win "because they are keyed up right now and they have the momentum."

Ford Will Start

Whitey Ford, incidentally, was certain to pitch for the Yankees in the opener but Manager Walter Alton was not expected to name the Brooklyn pitcher until after the workout today.

Despite Alton's uncertainty, it was believed that Sal Maglie, Brooklyn's hottest pitcher in the stretch, will get the call. Alton wants Maglie to open things up and late yesterday he had just about made up his mind to go with Sal but reserved judgment when the 39-year-old righthander complained of miseries in his shoulder.

"Maglie will pitch if his arm is all right," Alton said. "If not it will be Clem Labine."

Maglie said he felt tired and also complained of a mild stomach disorder but said he would pitch if Alton wanted him to. "I'll know better tomorrow," he said. "The shoulder is a little tender. I'll probably be all right tomorrow though."

Won 13 Games

The former Dodger killer's 13-5 record for Brooklyn ranks him second only to Don Newcombe (27-7), who will hurl the second game for Brooklyn against New York's Don Larsen. Sal lost his only previous World Series start against the Yankees, failing to go beyond the fifth inning in the 1951 series between the Yankees and Giants. With the Indians last year, Sal held the Yanks hitless in 3 1/3 innings.

Ford, who hasn't pitched since he failed in his bid for a 20th victory last Wednesday, will have a full week's rest when he faces the Dodgers. The southpaw ace appeared undaunted by the task confronting him in a park that is called a left-handed pitcher's graveyard. In Whitey's only series appearance there, in 1951, he was knocked out in the first inning.

"For a lefthander to win at Ebbets Field is a challenge," acknowledged Ford. "But I am anxious to prove I can do it. Harvey Haddix (Philadelphia southpaw) and Johnny Antonelli (Giant southpaw) have beaten

Redlegs Sign Pitcher

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs have signed righthander William Basal as a pitcher with their Clovis, N. M. team in the Class B Southwest League. He is 19 years old, 6 feet 2 inches tall and pitched at Elmira Free Academy and at Ithaca College. The announcement of the signing was made yesterday.

Mercury is the only metal that remains liquid at ordinary temperatures.

the Dodgers in Brooklyn. Why can't I?"

"I still regard Carl Furillo and Jackie Robinson as the two toughest hitters for me, but I still don't think the Dodgers are tougher to beat in Ebbets Field than the Red Sox are up in Fenway Park. And I have won there."

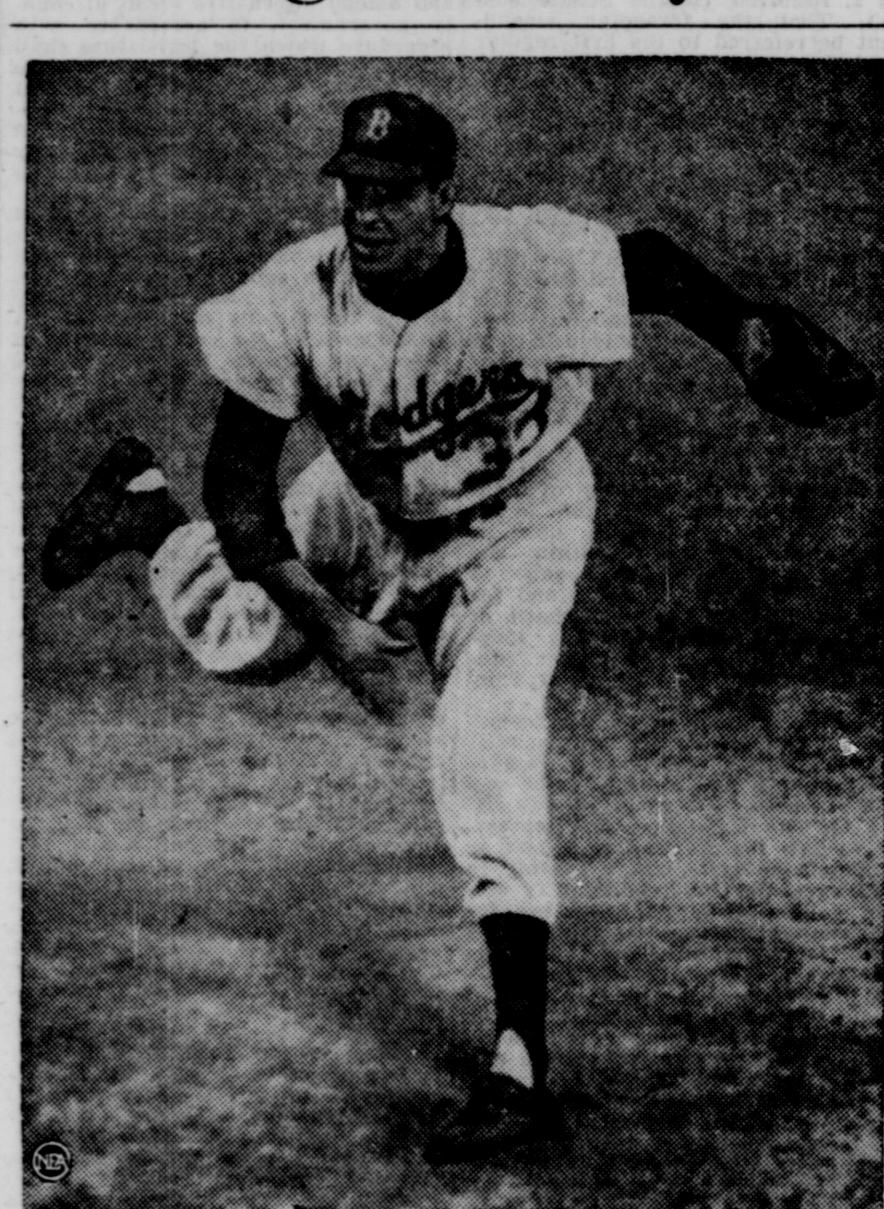

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel said he planned no lineup changes. Mickey Mantle, though still bothered by a pulled muscle in his left groin, is a certain starter in center field, as is Billy Martin at second base, despite a back ailment. Enos Slaughter has a bad toe but he, too, will be available, and will be in left field. Bill Skowron at first base, Andy Carey at third, Gil McDougald at shortstop, Hank Bauer in right field, and of course, Yogi Berra, behind the plate, complete the lineup.

Alston, who said Sunday he may play rookie Charlie Neal at second base, switching Junior Gilliam to left field in place of left-handed hitter Sandy Amoros, was uncertain about such a move today.

"Right now I'm leaning the other way a bit and may go with Amoros," Alston said.

All 34,000 tickets for the game have been sold. Those unable to get tickets may see the games on television (NBC) or hear it on radio (Mutual). Game time is 1 p. m. (EDT). This is the seventh series between the rivals, with the Yankees having won the first five and the Dodgers having taken the other, last year.

Arlington Jayvees Vanquish Kingston High School, 6-0

Sal Maglie

The joy and delirium that was Brooklyn's around 4:30 p. m. Sunday (Sept. 30) will be transformed to gloom and misery by Sunday, Oct. 7.

The Dodgers proved they were pros by bouncing back from the baseball grave to sweep the three-game set from their tormentors from Pittsburgh. But the Yankees of 1956 are not the Yankees of 1955. The series might go six. We doubt it. Over any distance, we're picking the Yankees.

The Milwaukee Braves might have been sterner stuff against the Bronx Bombers, although their fold job against the Cardinals leaves ample room for doubt. But you had to figure the pitcher-rich Braves would have been tougher in a short series.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Mickey Mantle becoming the fourth player in history to sweep the Triple Crown—home runs, runs batted in and batting average—settles for the time being, at least, the question of the No. 1 major leaguer today. . . . And shouldn't Walter O'Malley send a letter of thanks to the Giants and Cleveland Indians for the services of Sal Maglie? . . . Happiest men in town have to be Paul Freer, the mixologist, and Leo Pold, than whom there breathe no more ardent Yankee rooters. . . . How about Major Hoople calling the turn on Kingston High's victory over Port Jervis when every other observer in the DUSO predicted a win for the Red Raiders. . . . Eddie Palladino of Poughkeepsie is breathing defiance against Kingston but he'll get his answer in a couple weeks at Dietz Stadium. You don't think this World Series ticket stuff is serious? Frank (Spec) Shea of Connecticut, a former Yankee pitching star, phoned Fred Davi asking for a couple tickets.

Newcombe, the Forgotten Man:

In Brooklyn's most dazzling moment of triumph and exultation, that remembered Don Bessent, Sandy Amoros and Duke Snider, that remembered Don Newcombe, the large pitching giant the record books will say won 27 games in the wildest pennant race in baseball history? That's one of the more intriguing sidelights of the Dodgers' belated push to the pennant. And there are insiders who will tell you that Newcombe, a sensitive soul despite his pachyderm proportions, has deeply resented the adulations heaped on Sal Maglie. Perhaps Big Don Newcombe suffered the fate of many a worthwhile servant who was so great he had come to be taken for granted. What about my 27 victories, Newcombe might properly ask? But heroes are spawned in great moments and when the Dodgers pushed through a mass of hysterical supporters after achieving their ninth National League pennant, who were they The Duke (2 homers, a sensational catch and a new club record for home runs), Little Sandy Amoros, the comeback kid who hit two homers and Don Bessent, who saved the previous victory. Newcombe had long since been forgotten.

Of Men and Mice:

Hudson valley league managers upheld the protest against Tony's Pizzeria's use of Phil Versace of Poughkeepsie and awarded Jones Dairy a 2-1 victory. In order to qualify for local competition, Versace will have to sign with some local major league squad. . . . Billy Beeson, Medina senior, is pushing Gary Mendez of Poughkeepsie for one of the halfback spots this season. Hobart's press brochure says Beeson is the reason Mendez, a junior and former Poughkeepsie High School star, may end up this year as a great back. . . . The Port Jervis press' elaboration for the tremendous victory story came a cropper on a cross of fumbles Friday night at Dietz Stadium. The tri-staters had a five man press staff ready to cover a win from every conceivable angle, until the fumbling started. Kingston High is on the spot the rest of the way but off their Port Jervis form it's quite probable they have the horses and spirit to wade through the DUSO League. The Maroon hasn't won the conference hauble outright since 1950, a comparatively long drought in Bill Burke's regime.

If anyone but Birdie Tebbetts gets the Manager of the Year award in the National League, it will be a travesty on justice. Can you imagine that Redleg powerhouse operating behind the Milwaukee pitching staff?

Busso Stretches Skein to 7 With Win Over Salem

New York, Oct. 2 (AP)—New York's East Side, long the spawning grounds for outstanding lightweights, may have another top contender before long in young Johnny Busso.

An aggressive fighter and a crisp puncher with either hand, the 22-year-old Busso ran his latest victory streak to seven last night with a split decision over Cleveland's Tommy Salem in a television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Imposing Record

Unbeaten in 17 months, the curly-haired New Yorker, a recent bridegroom, now has an imposing 28-3-1 record. He said he was ready to take on the ranking fighters and he looked it in edging Salem, an able 23-year-old who looks like a fine prospect too. Salem's record is 22-7-1.

Referee Art Mercante gave Busso, the 8-5 favorite, the nod by a 6-3-1 margin. Judge Mike Davidowitch used a slide rule in casting his vote for Busso 6-5 on points after scoring the fight even in rounds, 5-5. Judge Nick Gamboli scored for Salem, 5-4-1. The AP card had Busso in front 6-3-1.

Busso Harder Hitter

Busso hit harder, especially with a long right to the head, and landed more punches. Salem exhibited a sharp left jab and hook. His hooks to the body were his best punches.

Busso, cut over the left eye in the seventh round, required five stitches. Salem was nicked under the right eye but he didn't need any embroidery. Busso weighed 139, Salem 136½.

Defensive Battle Marks Opener

Arlington High's jayvees defeated Kingston High juniors, 6-0, in a tight defense football battle yesterday at Arlington. It was the opener of the season for the Maroons.

Arlington scored the winning touchdown in the third period on a one-yard plunge. The score was set up by a 60 yard pass play.

The Maroons were in Arlington territory most of the afternoon, but couldn't break through. One of their scoring drives was thwarted by a penalty.

Coach Bill Hurley said that his team played an excellent defensive game, and that Arlington never seriously threatened. He added that the locals got to the Arlington 30 several times but then the offense bogged down.

The Maroons face Newburgh Free Academy next Monday at Newburgh in their next start. Their first home game Oct. 15 with Port Jervis.

Oklahoma Still Heads Balloting

(By The Associated Press)

With a string of 31 straight victories behind them and the end hardly in sight, Oklahoma's Sooners still are the nation's No. 1 college football team until someone proves they're not.

The nation's sports writers and broadcasters affirmed this rating by voting Oklahoma into the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press ranking poll for the second week of the 1956 season. The Sooners also were the pre-season choice for top ranking.

Sooners Still Dominate

The seasonal debut of the Big Ten conference teams, many rated high in the pre-season picks, had a distinct effect on this week's ratings. But Oklahoma, first on 60 of 97 ballots, still dominated. After whipping North Carolina 36-0 in the season opener, Oklahoma polled a total of 883 points on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second.

Michigan State, returning to its pre-season second rating on the strength of a 21-7 victory over Stanford, drew 17 first places and 773 points. Then came Georgia Tech, second a week ago, with 662 points. Tech has won two games, coming through a 9-7 squeaker against Southern Methodist last Saturday.

Others in the first ten, which included two new members and an entirely different order since last week, were Ohio State, Michigan, Mississippi, Pittsburgh, Texas Christian, Tennessee and Southern California.

Michigan Advances

Michigan, a smashing winner over UCLA in its opener, advanced from 13th place to fifth. Tennessee, not even in the first 20 last week, gained recognition by whipping Kentucky.

There's little trouble in sight for top-ranked Oklahoma. The next opponent, Kansas State, already has been beaten twice. Then comes the traditional scrap with Texas.

Michigan State vs. Michigan is this week's big one. Then Ohio State faces Stanford in a game that should indicate the balance of power in the Big Ten race. Georgia Tech has an open date. Mississippi plays Houston. Pitt tackles California. TCU meets Arkansas. Tennessee meets an old rival, Duke, and USC visits Wisconsin.

Yanks to Win, Poll Indicates

Bombers Slight Favorites to Cop

It looks like a Yankee victory in the World Series. Anyway, that's the consensus of opinion of a survey conducted among FREEMAN employees, the day before the opening of the classic.

The vote was extremely close, though. Twenty-one predicted a Yankee success and 19 a Dodger repeat.

Mrs. Dorothy Narel, society editor, was the only one polled who wasn't sure, however. Sure, that is, that there will be a series. In her own words:

Will There be a Series?

Is it definite that they will play the Series?

Otherwise, everyone else was highly emphatic about their selections. The girls more so than the boys. Here's just a few samples of comments from the distaff side:

Erma Summers (Classified)—"Why Dodgers, they have the spirit."

Phil Gehring (Classified)—"The Dodgers, they will play seven games and give the people their money's worth."

Betty Radel (Classified)—"Dodgers will win in five games, they are a natcheral."

Verna Petruski (Classified)—"Dodgers in four games."

Betty Saban (Classified)—"The Yanks still have the get up and go power, they will take them Bums in five games."

And here's some more:

Old Pros

George Kuriger (Pressman)—"Dodgers, old pros never fail."

Percy Fairbrother (Pressman)—"Yanks, they have a better team."

Warren Simmons (Classified)—"Why the Dodgers, natcheral, in seven games."

Joe Lawson (Pressman)—"Yanks, I don't know, but they got more runs."

John Riker (Pressman)—"Yanks, I don't know baseball but I just have that idea."

Ray Miller (driver)—"Yanks are going to win, but I'd rather see the Dodgers."

As for the boys in the composing room, here's their picks and the number of games:

John Wojcik, Yanks (6); Roland Post, Yanks (5); Andrew J. Campbell, Yanks (6); Kenneth J. Pillsbury, Dodgers (5); Charles Diers, Dodgers (5); Jack Misasi, Yanks (5); Bob Steeger, Yanks (6); Mike Ross, Dodgers (6); Bob Robinson, Yanks (6); John Dittus Jr., Dodgers (6); Ray Haines, Yanks (6); Charlie Misasi, Yanks (4); Earl Gedney, Dodgers (5); Tom Gorham, Dodgers (7); Pete Petersen, Yanks (6).

Advertising Picks

Over in advertising, Craig Plough thinks the Dodgers in six and Bob Hillis, the Brooks in seven.

Harry Hutton, a long-standing Yankee fan, has the Bombers winning in five while Fred Peters figures the Dodgers in four straight.

Knute Beichert and Bernie Leahy in the engraving department like the Dodgers all the way. Knute, a Giant fan and Dodger hater, but National League rooster, thinks the Bums in five. Bernie likes them, but it will take all seven games.

More Yankee Support

Don Koeppe, Slim Simmons and Chris Ortlieb are all riding with the Bombers. Koeppe thinks it will end in six, Ortlieb and Simmons in five.

As for editorial, it's the Yanks in a breeze. Dick McCarthy looks for it to last six games, Charlie Douglas five and Al Cawein, four.

Now for the sports department:

Charles Tiano, sports editor—"The Yankees will restore order and sanity to the World Series in six games, maybe less."

Sam Anzalone, assistant—"The Yanks in five games to undue the wrong of last year."

Ex-Boxing Head Dead

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP)—Funeral services will be held here this afternoon for Jacob Posner, former member of the New York State Boxing Commission who died in a hospital yesterday. He was 77. Mr. Posner served on the commission shortly after its establishment in the early 1900s.

Singer Socks 509

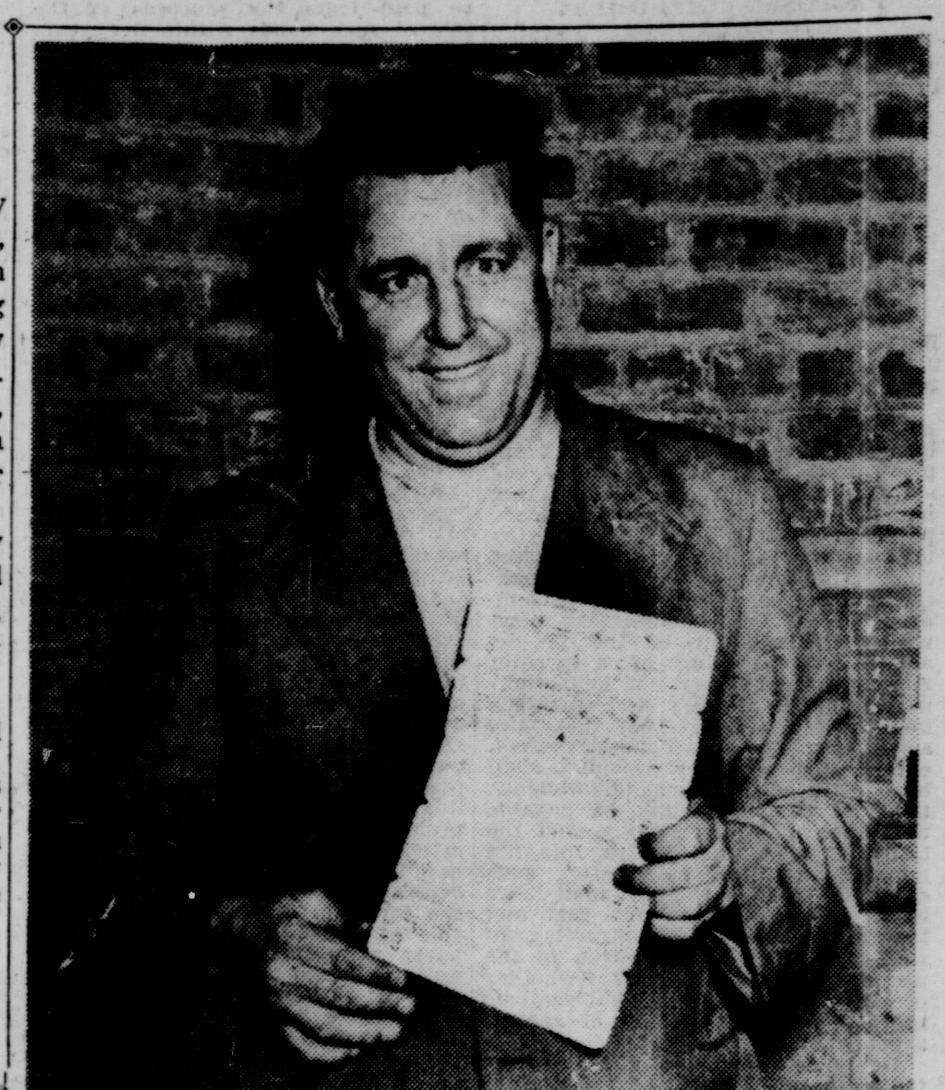

Eleanor Singer found the range for a 509 slam on games of 158, 170 and 181 in the Matinee League.

Esther Naigles fired 402, Blanche Epstein 416, Edna Van Kleeck 401, Betty Monashelsky 442, Pat Pearson 417, Edith Lawrence 420, Margaret McCord 416, Bertha Schaller 410, Minna Kandzia 428, Evelyn Francis 455.

Team results: Bernal Sales 1, Van Kleeck's 2; Quality Maple Block 0, Becker's Trucking 3; McCord's Heating 2½, Scholl's Market ½; Bowery Dugout 2, Gene Whalen's 1.

Audrey Potter Stars

Best-of-night in the Women's Junior Major was Audrey Potter.

WHERE, OH, WHERE—are these Yankee Stadium World Series reserved seat tickets that Manager Fred Davi of the Kingston Colonials once proudly displayed for the Freeman camera man? He lost them on Broadway some time Saturday. And they were section 14, mezzanine, no less. (Freeman photo.)

Like the Dodgers, Frankie Bruno of Sickler's Delivery got stronger as he went along to pace Independent League and city keglers with a 624 triple last night. He mixed games of 194, 205, 225 for the big set.

Don Vogel spliced 213, 193 and 194 for 600 in the same circuit.

Frank Turck of the American Legion squad posted 166, 245 and 193 for 604 in the Junior Major League.

Esposito Hits 594

Eddie Esposito anchored his own Esposito's squad in the Junior Major with a 234 solo and 594 series.

Ralph Bush fired 507, George Magley 211-580, Rod Phillips 537, Paul Khederian 504, Had DeGraff 212-200-574, Warren Wood 510, Ken Schupp 207-511, Milton Cole 541, Jim Peterson 211-516, Tom Orr 200-547, Ernie Bartroff 20

High School Seeks 3rd Victory Friday Against NYMA

Maroons Meet Cadets Under Stadium Lights

Still up in the clouds after its stunning 6-0 upset win over Port Jervis, Kingston High School faces another stiff assignment Friday night at Dietz Stadium when it runs up against always-dangerous New York Military Academy of Cornwall-on-Hudson.

Although the Cadets have had their ups and downs the past four or five seasons they never fail to present a formidable team. Last year, for instance, they suffered through a dismal season, winning only one, tying two and losing five, yet only lost to KHS by 13-6.

But this is another season and fortunes at the military school are reported to be on the upswing. One of the reasons is the return of Tom Murray as new head coach.

Murray Back

Murray was appointed head man at the start of the season, after sitting out the past four years. He held the top post for nine years during which time his team compiled enviable records. Enrico Cipolaro succeeded Murray for three seasons and Bob Trocola last year, but now Murray is back.

Murray made a triumphant return in his team's opener, directing NYMA to a surprisingly 18-6 victory over Union Hill High of Union City, N. J. The win came Friday evening, the same time the Maroons were wacking Port.

KHS expects another tough evening against the Cadets, but that won't be anything new since the Maroons don't have one breather on their eight-game schedule. They had to battle right to the end to whip Christian Brothers Academy (Albany) in the opener before winning 32-18 and then out-scoffed the Red Raiders.

Sweet Win

Naturally, the Porter triumph was a sweet decision. It came as a startling upset in most quarters, but not so much to the Maroons who were pointing for the encounter.

The win put Kingston on the spot for the DUSO League championship. That's not the most comfortable position to be in, but the locals aren't complaining as long as they are on top in the race. They share the perch with Poughkeepsie who defeated Middletown 13-6 in the other DUSO contest over the weekend.

Burke Praises Team

Coach Bill Burke had only the highest praise for his athletes today as he paused to review the Port victory. He said that he and his aides, Bill Hurley and Russ Cunningham, were very satisfied with the team's performance.

Burke revealed that the Maroons came out of the bruising struggle without any injuries which is remarkable and a tribute to the squad's conditioning.

Burke also had some happy news to report about Hobie Armstrong, who sat out most of the Port game with sore hips. The all-around back told his coach that he has shaken off the effects of the injury and is ready to participate in a scrimmage session Wednesday and will be raring to go Friday.

Reserves

A host of reserves who have been coming along rapidly look set to help out in Friday's game, Burke indicated. Burke is talking about guard Mike Wood, end Dick Frodsham, tackle Connie Vendetti and backs Jim Cullum, Ted Switz, and Don Van Buren. This group can give the Maroons a terrific lift where they are sorely needing.

An extra added attraction of Friday's contest will be a colorful parade by the NYMA corps of cadets. Three-hundred strong will march at the game, accompanied by their own band.

Cardinals Drop Allentown Farm

Allentown, Pa., Oct. 1 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced today they will not operate their Allentown farm in the Class A Eastern League next year.

Don Dix, general manager of the Allentown team, said the parent Cardinals had decided to drop Allentown because of "a lack of fan support." He said it was hoped local interests would buy the club and operate it in 1957.

The Allentown team drew 75,000 fans this past season while finishing fourth in the league. The club was eliminated from the Governor's Cup playoffs in the first round by Schenectady.

Last year, with a second place team which won the post-season playoffs, Allentown attracted only 88,000 paid admissions. The Cardinals operated the franchise here starting with the 1954 season.

Cost of Consideration

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—Consideration for the police cost a Norfolk man $10. When Patrolmen O. J. Glass and R. W. Straw were called to investigate a disturbance, they found a minor domestic quarrel under way. "We asked them to go back in the house and go to bed," Glass told Police Court Judge Savory E. Amato. Instead, the husband insisted that he be arrested because the police had gone to all the trouble to answer the call. Glass said, "He got so insistent that we had to arrest him." Glass added. The defendant admitted as much. The judge fined the husband $10 for disorderly conduct.

Net Newcomers May Get Shot at Aussie Cup Aces

Forest Hills, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP)—How about Mike Green and Sam Giammalva against Australia's Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall in the Davis Cup challenge round? It's not as fantastic as it sounds at first blush.

The matter was enthusiastically discussed in the West Side Club's upstairs locker rooms yesterday after America, using

Green and Giammalva as substitutes, completed a 4-1 rout of Italy in the inter-zone final.

Green 19

Green, a 19-year-old Miami collegian who hasn't quit growing, lost to Italy's top ace, Nicola Pietrangeli, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. At times he looked like another Jack Kramer.

Giammalva, 23, of Houston, Tex., played some of the finest tennis of his life in subduing giant Orlando Sirola, 12-10, 6-2, 6-3, after Pietrangeli had refused to play him.

Pietrangeli's argument was that "it wasn't anything personal—I just didn't want anybody telling me I had to play Giammalva. I said I'd play Green or nobody."

The makeup of the U. S. squad, which leaves by air Oct. 30 for Australia, is still indefinite. But it's likely to be made up of veterans Vic Seixas and Ham Richardson, Giammalva, Green and perhaps Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mike Franks of Los Angeles.

Lots of Sentiment

There's a lot of sentiment among tennis high brass in this country to give the youngsters a shot at the Davis Cup.

"What can we lose?" said one high official who preferred not to be identified. "Seixas and Richardson have shown time and again they can't beat Hoad and Rosewall. Let's give the kids a break—the experience would be wonderful."

The U. S. first must play India in Perth in mid-December before qualifying to challenge Australia at Adelaide starting Dec. 26.

Hearing for Greene Set for Saturday

John Greene, 36, of Poughkeepsie a teacher in Wappingers Falls Central School, who was arrested on two charges early Sunday morning, Sept. 16, by Kingston state police, will appear at a hearing this Saturday before Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers of Saugerties.

Mr. Greene was arrested by Trooper Pat F. Crowley on charges of driving while his license was revoked and driving without lights. The arrest followed a two-car collision on Route 9W in the town of Saugerties.

Trooper Crowley reported that Mr. Greene pulled from the west shoulder of the highway about 3:30 a. m. and started south but failed to turn on his headlights.

A 1950 sedan, operated by William H. Peter, 23, of Saugerties, traveling south, struck the Greene car in the rear, according to the report.

Trial Date Changed

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 2 (P) — The trial of Angelo J. Lamarcia on charges of kidnapping and murdering little Peter Weinberger has been reset for Nov. 5, Nassau County Judge Cyril J. Brown fixed the new date yesterday after the Brooklyn Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court turned down Lamarcia's plea for a change in the location of the trial. The trial was scheduled to begin here yesterday.

To Ask Salk Funds

Denver, Oct. 2 (P) — The legislature will be asked for funds to finance free Salk polio vaccinations for all Colorado adults up to 36 years old, Director Roy L. Cleere of the State Health Department said today. An increase in polio among adults past 19 points up the need for the program, Cleere said, adding: "The state should accept some responsibility to those who cannot pay for shots. Age should be no consideration."

Democrats Win

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 2 (P) — Democrats came up with a smashing victory in Middle-town and elsewhere it seemed voters were satisfied with what they have as 20 Connecticut communities balloted for local officials yesterday. Only two towns of the 20 changed administrations. Plainville switched from Republican to Democratic, but East Granby Republicans drove out the Democrats after a two-year reign.

Why We Say--

BIG SPENDER: This word appears as a contradiction if you look at the words spend and thrift written together. A spender-thrift is a big spender, but the thrift means that he spends the thrift or savings of another... such as a son who inherits his father's fortune and promptly goes out to spend it.

SHAKESPEARE BRINGS HOME THE BACON—Old-car collector John W. Shakespeare, of Centralia, Ill., poses with his latest acquisition, one of the rarest motor vehicles in the world. It's a Bugatti La Royale, custom-built in Italy in 1933. One of six still in existence of the eight that were made, the three-ton monster is 20 feet long, seven feet wide and 6½ feet high. Constructed at a cost equivalent of $35,000, Shakespeare bought it from an English collector for $10,000. The La Royale's said to do 90 m.p.h. in second gear and 120 m.p.h. in high.

Secretary of State Dulles has said that he, too, will attend the council sessions, which start Friday afternoon.

Let Out for Honeymoon

Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 2 (P) — A convicted burglar, sentenced to 2 to 10 years in prison, will be allowed to get married and take a nine-day honeymoon, a Circuit Court judge ruled yesterday. Judge Bernard Decker, after sentencing James Pampinella, 24, of Chicago, learned that he had planned to be married Oct. 24 and invitations for the wedding had been sent out. Decker granted a stay of execution of sentence and released Pampinella until Oct. 29 on $10,000 bond.

Hunt Ex-Convict
Richmond, Ind., Oct. 2 (P) — Forty state troopers and 18 sheriff's deputies combed Wayne county early today in search of Thomas Moistner, 22, an ex-convict accused of the shotgun killing of his best friend. State police said Moistner, of Indianapolis, abandoned his car in Hagerstown, Ind., about 20 miles west of here. He was believed to be armed with a 12 gauge shotgun. Road blocks were set up throughout the county. Two state police planes were to join in the search. Moistner, Indianapolis police said, killed Thomas E. Scott, 17, Sunday night in Indianapolis after Scott had surprised him as Moistner was about to rape a nude 15-year-old girl.
